FAIRCHILD AND HAMMOND.

THE TRUTH AT LAST.

REPLY TO THE TILDEN CANDIDATE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL—WHAT FAIRCHILD SAID ABOUT HAMMOND—LETTER FROM EX-GOV. ALVORD AND STATEMENT OF SPEAKER M'GUIRE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sunday, Oct. 24, 1875.

Since the opening of the present political campaign Mr. Charles S. Fairchild, the Democratic, or more properly speaking the Tilden, candidate for Attorney General of this State, has been accused of complicity in the effort of an unscrupulous Ring to obtain possession in an illegal manner of the Canastota and Cazenovia Railroad. He has also been charged with being, in common with his father, Sidney T. Fairchild, a party to the swindle perpetrated by the Hudson River Bridge Company in exacting tolls from the traveling public, whose aggregate amount enormously exceeds any legal warrant therefor. He has also been charged with such minor offenses as incompetency in office, and with having constantly acted a dishonorable and treacherous part toward his superior, Judge Pratt. To all of these charges Mr. Fairchild has persistently refused to reply. One week ago, however, there appeared in THE TIMES a letter reflecting very severely upon the character of Stephen Hammond, Tilden's candidate for Senator in the Twenty-sixth District. In the letter referred to it was stated that Mr. Fairchild had always been aware of Hammond's corrupt practices, and that he said in conversation last Winter that there were certain papers in the Attorney General's office which would compel Hammond to support the so-called canal reform measures of the Governor. Upon the publication of this statement Mr. Fairchild, with a self-abnegation and Pythias-like fidelity truly remarkable in these later days, hastened to the defense and rescue of his friend Hammond, and in a public card denied that he ever used the language or anything like the language attributed to him, and asserted positively that he knows nothing against the official character of the Governor's candidate for State Senator. In short, he declared that the statement in THE TIMES was untrue in every particular. The following affidavit is your correspondent's answer to Mr. Fairchild:

Chemung County, ss.—Howard Carroll, being duly sworn, deposes and says that on the 18th of the present month THE NEW-YORK TIMES published a statement regarding Stephen H. Hammond, a Democratic candidate for State Senator, in the course of which it was alleged that Charles S. Fairchild, Democratic candidate for Attorney General, said last Winter that if Mr. Hammond, then a member of the Assembly, did not willingly support the canal reform movement certain papers could be produced which would force him to do so. Mr. Fairchild has seen fit, in a public card, to deny the truth of this statement, and now the undersigned solemnly swears that the assertions made regarding Mr. Fairchild were true in every particular; and the undersigned further swears that some days after the publication of the Governor's Canal Message a conversation occurred between himself and Mr. Fairchild at Albany, in the course of which Mr. Fairchild said, in substance, that in his opinion Hammond would not oppose the Governor, but that if he did attempt to do so there were certain papers in existence regarding him which could be produced and would compel him to take a different course. The undersigned has no desire to maliciously injure Mr. Fairchild, and the above statement is made, and the statement in THE TIMES of the 18th inst. was made, not for the purpose, as has been claimed, of slandering the gentleman named, but simply and only to serve the ends of truth and justice.

(Signed,) HOWARD CARROLL.

Sworn to before me Oct. 23, 1875.

E. LANGDON HART,
Notary Public in and for Chemung County,

A CARD FROM MR. ALVORD.

The following card from ex-Gov. Alvord, referring to the same matter, explains itself:

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Regarding your statement in reference to what Charles S. Fairchild knew about Stephen H. Hammond, and Mr. Fairchild's subsequent denial, I have to state that S. H. Hammond, last Winter, in all his private talk, was very positive in his opposition to the extreme measures called for by the Governor, and he was supposed to be against them. When a vote was taken, however, Mr. Hammond was found going with the Governor, and his action was generally attributed to a declaration which was publicly made many times, and which was charged on the floor of the House in debate, that matters were on file in the office of the Attorney General which would be used against Hammond unless he acted as the Governor desired regarding the canal questions. Hammond made no speeches on any of the questions referred to, although speaking generally on all other important subjects. T. G. ALVORD.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 29, 1875.

The above affidavit and card are advanced for the purpose of proving the falsity of the first part of Mr. Fairchild's denial. Further on in the same remarkable document the gentleman says there are not now, nor have there ever been to my knowledge, any papers in the Attorney General's office which reflect in the least upon Mr. Hammond's character as a man, or upon his capacity as an officer. That this assertion is a barefaced lie is conclusively proved by the following statement from Speaker Jeremiah McGuire, a Democrat, and a gentleman whose truth and honesty are known to every citizen of this State:

A STARTLING STATEMENT FROM SPEAKER M'GUIRE.

The statement referred to is as follows: At about 7 o'clock on the evening of the 6th of January, in the present year, the Speaker, Mr. McGuire, had an interview with Samuel J. Tilden, the Governor of New-York, at his house in Albany. During that interview the Governor told the Speaker that he understood he intended to appoint Stephen H. Hammond to the position of Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means. Mr. McGuire giving no definite answer, the Governor continued, saying that it would be impolitic to appoint Hammond to that position, as his reputation for corrupt practices while Deputy Attorney General was such that the public would have no confidence in him or in the reform pretenses of the Administration. One of the expressions used by the Governor was: "The party cannot afford to carry Hammond." During the interview Mr. Tilden spoke in that guarded and cautious manner peculiar to him. When the Speaker was leaving he asked him to consider the matter well, and concluded by saying that Deputy Attorney General Fairchild knew all about Hammond's corruption, and that he would call on the Speaker and give him details. On the evening of the same day, that is, the 6th of January, 1875, shortly after 9 o'clock, Mr. McGuire met Mr. Fairchild in the main hall of the Delavan House and Fairchild requested a private interview with the Speaker. This request was granted, and the two gentlemen ascended to Mr. McGuire's room. Arriving there Fairchild locked the door, saying it was important that they should not be interrupted. He remained in that room until nearly 1 o'clock in the morning, telling the Speaker of corrupt practices in which Hammond had been engaged, and trying to prevent his appointment to the Chairmanship of the Committee on Ways and Means. Fairchild opened the conversation by informing the Speaker of the mode of operations of what he called the "Canal Ring." He then spoke of the organization of the House, and said that as the Democratic Party was talking so much about reform it would be necessary to place men enjoying the public confidence at the head of the important committees. Referring to the Committee on Ways and Means, Mr. Fairchild said he understood that Stephen H. Hammond was to be made its Chairman. It might be possible, he said, that the Speaker was not aware of Mr. Hammond's character, and he deemed it his duty to inform him that the reputation of the person named was deservedly very bad. Mr. Fairchild continued by saying that while in the Attorney General's office Hammond had been guilty of certain actions which were fraudulent, corrupt, and indefensible; that these actions could not be much longer concealed—indeed, that they would be exposed before the end of the legislative session—and that it would be disastrous to the party if Hammond was appointed and these revelations made. Mr. Fairchild then related special cases of malfeasance in which he accused Hammond of being engaged. Among other things, he said that when he (Fairchild) took charge of of the Deputy Attorney General's office he found in that office a bond given to the State by a former Treasurer of Rockland County, and by that Treasurer's sureties this bond had been sent to the Attorney General's office by the Controller for suit, the Treasurer having made default while Hammond was Deputy Attorney General. Fairchild continued that on finding the bond he brought suit against the Treasurer and his sureties. A defense was interposed, the cause was referred, and was to be tried during that Winter. Mr. Fairchild further informed the Speaker that a few weeks before the date of this conversation the Treasurer and his sureties had called at the Attorney General's office and asked him what he meant by bringing a suit on that bond. Mr. Fairchild replied that he did so in the line of his duty, whereupon the Treasurer indignantly stated that he had paid Deputy Attorney General Hammond $7,000 not to press the suit, and that in consideration of that sum Hammond had agreed that the bond should not be proceeded against; in short, that it should be "pigeon-holed." Now, if suit was entered the Treasurer threatened that he would expose the whole transaction. Upon these and similar grounds Mr. Fairchild urged Speaker McGuire not to appoint Hammond to the position in connection with which his name was mentioned. He spent four hours in this way, yet now denies that he ever heard or knew anything against the official character of the man whom he tried so hard to defeat. After that denial Mr. Charles S. Fairchild may be considered capable of anything, and it is possible that he will try to cast discredit upon the above statement. Should he do so, Speaker McGuire will swear positively to its truth. If Mr. Fairchild is foolhardy enough to enter further into this discussion it might be well for him to commence by informing the public what he has done with the bond which Hammond received $7,000 to file away in the dusty recesses of the Attorney General's office.

HAMMOND'S COMPLICITY IN DISCREDITABLE INSURANCE MATTERS.

In connection with the matter in discussion above we may add the following statement from a member of the Assembly in 1874:

"Noticing Hammond's nomination to the Senate recalls to my mind the advice Charley Fairchild (would-be Attorney General) gave me while I was in the Assembly. He told me not to put any confidence in Hammond; that his administration in the Attorney General's office had been rotten, and that he was mixed up in some discreditable insurance matters while in office."

FUNERAL OF FREDERIC HUDSON.

SIMPLE BUT IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT CONCORD, MASS.—THE PROMINENT PERSONS PRESENT.

CONCORD, Mass., Oct. 24.—The funeral of Frederic Hudson took place here to-day. The obsequies were held at the family mansion, on Main street, and commenced at 2 o'clock P. M. There was a large attendance of those who had formerly been associated with Mr. Hudson professionally and others, who, during his residence in Concord, had come to admire him for his noble qualities of head and heart. The New-York Herald, of which journal Mr. Hudson was the first managing editor, was represented by the following: S. R. Glenn, W. H. Hendry, W. F. Smythe, R. J. Simes, Myron R. Cooney, Edward Flynn, George W. Hosmer, G. B. Wallis, and Thomas Maguire, while the leading dailies of Boston also sent representatives. Among the distinguished persons present were Hon. E. Rockwood Hoar, Ralph Waldo Emerson, N. P. Banks, A. Bronson Alcott, and William Munroe, founder of the public library at Concord. The majority of those in attendance were unable to gain admission to the house. The remains, dressed in white, lay in a plain casket of black walnut, which was ornamented with silver handles. There was an entire absence of flowers, and music formed no part of the services. These commenced with reading of the Scriptures by Rev. Henry M. Grout, of the Congregational Church, of which Mr. Hudson was a constant attendant. Mr. Grout then pronounced the funeral discourse. At the conclusion of the eulogy Rev. Grindall Reynolds, of the Unitarian Church, made an impressive prayer, which closed the services. An opportunity was offered those present to look for the last time upon the features of the departed, and then the procession proceeded to the cemetery, the following gentlemen acting as pall-bearers: E. Rockwood Hoar, Henry P. Smith and W. W. Wilde, of the Board of Selectmen of Concord, Reuben N. Rice, George Heywood, and Henry Staples, all of Concord.

The Coroner's inquest exonerated the railroad company of blame for Mr. Hudson's death.

SEVERE STORM IN BERMUDA.

HALIFAX, Oct. 24.—The steamer Beta, from St. Thomas and Bermuda, arrived and reports that a terrific storm visited Bermuda on the 9th inst., unroofing several houses and blowing down the tents occupied by the soldiers at the Warwick camp. At the dock yard much damage was done, about one hundred feet of causeway being washed away. The effect of the storm was felt throughout the Colony.

PRUSSIC ACID AND WHISKY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 24.—It appears that Dr. Sherman and Samuel Parker, who very suddenly fell dead in the street in Bevier, Mo., on Friday last, died from drinking a mixture of prussic acid and whisky by mistake for plain whisky.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 24.—St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church in Georgiaville was dedicated to-day by Bishop Hendricken, assisted by Vicar General McMahon, of New-Bedford, and numerous guests.

A FATHER STABS HIS DAUGHTER'S SEDUCER—PUBLIC SENTIMENT ON THE ACT—M. DUMAS' SCHEME OF LAWS—HOW WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 8, 1875.

I gave you a brief account the other day of the case of Henri Robert, the young dry goods clerk who was nearly killed by M. Marambot, whose daughter he had seduced. While it was then evident that the case of this unhappy father would arouse a great deal of public sympathy, nothing led one to suppose that it would become a cause célèbre. Mlle. Jeanne Marambot, while the mistress of Robert, a clerk in the same shop in which she was employed, had excused her frequent absences at night by saying that she was detained by a press of work. The robes that she purchased were represented as the result of her overwork, and the unsuspecting father was charmed with the presumed industry of his daughter. As she had made him believe that she was engaged to be married he began to make a watch for her, and told all his friends that he intended to make every piece of it with his own hand, for Jeanne was about to marry, and he wanted to present it to her on her wedding day. The watch was nearly completed when the terrible revelation was made, and the old and honest watchmaker saw how foully he had been deceived. He went to the young man and asked him to marry his daughter, but Henri Robert refused, saying that if he had Mlle. Jeanne for his mistress he had only amused himself as Marambot himself had done in his younger days. Even this piece of insolence was borne, but when he refused to marry Jeanne on the ground that nobody could be sure that he was her first lover, the indignant father plunged a knife into his breast. The young man is not dead, and will probably recover, but if he had been killed upon the spot no jury in France would have brought in a verdict of guilty against M. Marambot. In prison he has received a great many marks of sympathy, and some of the shop-keepers of Paris were getting up a subscription for him, when his advocate begged them to stop it until after the trial.

Here we have a case of no ordinary nature, it is true, but one that might have attracted but a moderate amount of attention had it not been seized upon by the moralists. M. Alexandre Dumas comes out with a long letter in his own peculiar style, containing a full justification of the act committed by this outraged father. He cites a number of cases to show that no jury would ever think of convicting, and says that legislators must alter their laws if they do not want men to take the law into their own hands in cases like this. So far M. Dumas is reasonable enough. I feel sure that Americans will be surprised to find that there is a doubt about the matter, for under similar circumstances no man would hesitate a moment, and law or no law he would avenge his honor on the spot. Theoretically this is wrong, it will be confessed, but at such a moment no one would stop to think whether it was or not, or hesitate before any possible consequences. But in France the individual is crushed and overwhelmed by the laws that seem to enter into every detail of his life, and rendered timid and hesitating even in self-defense. With us the act of M. Marambot would seem the most natural thing in the world; here it is admired as an act of unusual courage. Theoretically, too, the proper thing to do in such cases is to give the seducer into custody; but if he had done so the law would have given him the ridiculously inadequate punishment of six months' or a year's imprisonment. It was done in more than one case during the last sessions. When, says M. Dumas, the law provides no punishment for certain crimes the individual has the right to take justice into his own hands.

From this point M. Dumas runs into his peculiar metaphysical or moralizing vein, as shown in his Tüe-la, about the Dubourg case, and in his more recent pamphlet entitled L'Homme-Femme. He says that thirty-eight per cent. of the children born in France are illegitimate, and claims that there is an urgent necessity for making a law upon the subject. He gives a draft of the law. The first article treats virginity as property, and says that it should be protected as all sorts of property are protected by law. The price of virtue varies according to the station in life of the two parties. M. Dumas thus formulates his law: "Article I. The virginity of girls is a capital. Any individual convicted of having appropriated it out of the marriage state, if the girl or her parents enter a complaint, with irrefutable proofs to support it, shall be condemned to from one thousand to one hundred thousand francs penalty if he is rich; from two to ten years' imprisonment if he is poor. Moreover if a child is born from these relations, he shall receive the name of the father, who must, in addition, settle upon it a sum equal to that received by the mother. Art. II. The girl convicted of having enticed a man for the purpose of speculation, or of having sworn falsely against him, shall be condemned to an imprisonment from two to five years. The same penalty shall be inflicted upon her accomplices, parents, or others."

Such is the law proposed by M. Alexandre Dumas, and developed by him in an article six columns long. A second law touches upon the status of illegitimate children. If society hesitates to pass the above laws for the protection of girls, it should, at least, turn the present evil to its own profit. The considerations of the second law are given as follows:

"And whereas, it is established, on the one hand, that, in spite of our five religious institutions, the population is diminishing, and also the number of marriages, while the number of illegitimate children augments from day to day; and, whereas, these illegitimate children constitute a force that, well employed, can render great services to the State, since we can count, among the greatest men honored by humanity, a very great number of natural children that have happily not been killed by their mothers, such as Hercules, Ismael, Jeptha, Archelaus, Romulus, Themistocles, Jugurtha, Tancred, Charles Martel, Boccaccio, Leonardo da Vinci, P. Farneese, Erasmus, Clement VII., Cæsar de Vendôme, William the Conqueror, Marshal Berwick, Marshal de Saxe, D'Alembert, Champfort, Championnet, Jaques Delille, and a thousand more; and, whereas, by not according protection to illegitimate children, society runs the risk ever to be regretted that abortion, infanticide, misery, and despair will deprive it of some of the illustrious men like those named, of whom one alone sometimes suffices to immortalize, enrich, and save a country; and, whereas, the damage thus done a country would be a thousand times greater than the cost of preventing it: Decree, that the State shall take charge of all natural children, and have them reared with the greatest possible care."

I need scarcely say that the long letter of M. Dumas has made a sensation in Paris, and nearly all the journals discuss it at some length to-day, all, however, pointing out the impossibility of making any laws of the kind. There are many things in the article, however, that furnish food for reflection, and I am sure that it will be warmly welcomed by the advocates of woman's rights. But I think that we shall have to rely for some time to come upon the laws that we now have, as faulty as they may appear. The legislator has to take a more practical view of things than that taken by the moralist. The law has this good thing about it, that is it does not wander away from practical common sense like the moralist. It says in three lines what he says in six columns. But the law which punishes the murderer will not strike the old man in question, for it always shows itself indulgent toward the outraged father or husband. Probably the law says there is an honest man, an example of probity and honor who, by the fault of a young man, by the fault of his daughter, or by the fault of both, if we will, who has become a murderer. I punish murder, says the law; but as I fear my own severities in certain cases, I have admitted the jury system. I am the reason—the jury is the heart. I will have nothing to do with sentiment, but I do not prevent the jury from showing its feelings, and from being softened by the sad circumstances of the case. So far as the protection of virginity is concerned, I fancy that all the laws in the world, and all the talent of such writers as M. Dumas, will do less to that end than the natural instincts of woman, and all the preaching that we can do will have less influence upon young girls than the spectacle of a pure young girl led to the marriage altar, or of the virtuous young wife with her baby on her breast.

THE ST. LOUIS BREWERS.

EVIDENCE OF ADDITIONAL FRAUDS UPON THE REVENUE—STAMPS DOING DUTY FIVE TIMES ON BEER BARRELS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—The brewers of this city are considerably agitated over a report to the effect that the United States Government authorities are preparing for a grand raid on their establishments. It is asserted that a sufficient amount of testimony has been obtained to authorize the seizure of nearly all the large breweries in St. Louis. Just after the sudden attack on the Whisky Ring three months ago Secretary Bristow was informed that enormous frauds were being perpetrated by the brewers as well as the distillers, and he immediately directed that detectives be set to work on the matter without delay, and that no expense be spared to ferret out the frauds and obtain the necessary proof against the parties. Detectives have been at work ever since, and it is asserted by those whose facilities for information are good, that frauds to the extent of $300,000 have been discovered, and that developments now being made will show a still larger amount. These frauds have been accomplished steadily since January, 1873. A large number of cases have been unearthed where the same revenue stamps have been made to do service upon as many as five and ten different packages of beer at different times, the stamp being carefully moistened and removed from the bung, instead of being defaced when the package was opened, as intended and required by the revenue regulations. There is great uneasiness among the brewers, as the bolt is expected to fall at any time.

LIFE-SAVING ON THE COAST.

THE SURFMEN'S WINTER TERM OF SERVICE FIXED—A FRAUDULENT AND BLACKMAILING MARINER.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Treasury Department has prepared a letter of instructions to Superintendents of life-saving stations, directing them to see that no efforts are neglected to promote the efficiency of the life-saving service, and charging them specially to see that none but the most worthy and competent men are employed in this important work. Instructions as to the time when surfmen shall be employed to remain continuously at the several stations have also been prepared. At Station No. 1, which embraces the coast of Maine and New-Hampshire, surfmen will be employed continuously from Nov. 1 to May 2. At Station No. 2, the coast of Massachusetts, surfmen will remain at houses Nos. 1, 2, 5, and 6 from Nov. 1 to May 1. At the remaining ten houses on this coast they will remain from Nov. 1 to April 15. At Station No. 3, embracing Rhode Island and Long Island, at houses Nos. 1, 2, 11, 15, 19, 22, and 27, from Nov. 15 to April 15, and at the remaining houses from Nov. 15 to April 1. At Station No. 4, the coast of New-Jersey, at houses Nos. 2, 10, 12, 17, 27, and 35, from Nov. 15 to April 15, and at the remaining houses to April 1. At Station No. 5, extending from the Delaware Capes to Cape Charles, from Dec. 1 to April 1. At Station No. 6, extending from Cape Charles to Cape Hatteras, from Dec. 1 to April 8. Each boat's crew will consist of six surfmen.

Public attention was recently directed to the fact that William Jay Murphy, supposed to reside at or near New-York City, was sending letters to distinguished Army and Navy officers, and gentlemen prominent in civil life, announcing that he is President of a wrecking company, organized for the purpose of saving life from shipwreck, and that his company has prepared for launching a vessel which it is proposed to name after the party addressed. The victim is then informed that the custom in such cases is for the gentleman thus honored to present to the craft which is to bear his name a suit of colors or $100 in cash with which to supply them. This trick has succeeded in a number of cases. Not long ago a Commodore in the United States Navy received such a communication from Murphy, but suspecting the fellow, made application at the Treasury Department concerning the wrecking company and the status of Murphy, who represents himself to be a regularly licensed pilot. It was ascertained that the company has no existence, and that Murphy has been pursuing this swindling system as a regular business. He was licensed as a pilot at New-York some time last year but is not known to have pursued that business. This license must soon expire and instructions have been issued not to renew. From information received at the Treasury Department it appears that Murphy is still practicing his vain tricks, and public men should be on their guard against him.

BY MAIL AND TELEGRAPH.

A fourteen-months-old child of Charles Sylvester, of Augusta, Me., fell into a kettle of boiling water on Saturday evening, and died from the effects.

Another attempt was made yesterday to burn the Franklin House at Bangor, Me., but the fire was put out without serious loss. The citizens are becoming excited over these incendiarisms.

A fire at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, on Saturday night, destroyed the Surprise Foundry, the block manufactory of Israel Horton & Son, Joseph W. Crowell's store, and the sail loft of Goudey & Adams. The loss is about 20,000.

The victorious nine of the Brown University were received at the Providence, R. I., depot on their return from Cambridge Saturday night by the undergraduates, and escorted to the college grounds with torches, lanterns, and great cheering.

Michael P. Kelly, a lad twelve years of age, who was employed on the Delaware and Hudson Canal, fell overboard and was drowned near Port Jervis yesterday morning. His body was sent to Kingston, N. Y., where his parents reside.

A three-story building at the head of State street, Montpelier, Vt., occupied as a grocery store, boot and shoe store, and a restaurant, was partially destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss on the building and stocks is about $5,000; partially insured.

Four barnes, belonging to Hon. Charles B. Sedgwick, on James street, Syracuse, were burned yesterday morning by an incendiary. One hundred tons of hay, a large quantity of grain, and some blooded stock were burned. Loss $18,000; insured for $5,000.

An incendiary fire at Mahanoy Plane, Schuylkill County, Penn., at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, destroyed Kirlin's drug store, in which were the Post Office and the Western Union Telegraph office, together with seven business houses adjoining. The mail matter and telegraph instruments were saved. The total loss is $30,000, of which Kirlin's loss is $4,000, with an insurance of $2,200. A number of thefts were committed during the progress of the fire, and one of the thieves was arrested. No clue to the incendiary has been discovered.

PENNSYLVANIA POLITICS.

THE PROBLEMS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

SENATOR CAMERON EXPECTS A REPUBLICAN VICTORY—HIS VIEWS ON NATIONAL QUESTIONS—THE UNCERTAIN QUANTITIES OF THE CAMPAIGN BEING DISCOVERED—THE POSSIBLE IMPORT OF SOME OF THEM.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Sunday, Oct. 24, 1875.

Though Harrisburg is the capital of Pennsylvania, it is not now an important political centre. The State buildings are beautifully situated, high above the picturesque Susquehanna, but they are old and unimposing, and the time is doubtless not very distant when the question of removing the seat of Government to Philadelphia will agitate the State. But if Harrisburg has no special importance politically, some of the best known of Pennsylvania politicians are to be found here, who have information of the condition of the State canvass, fuller and more likely to be correct than any which reaches the State Committee. Here on a historic ground stands the fine old house which is the home of Senator Cameron. He has remitted the active work of campaigning to younger men, but still gives counsel, and keeps himself well informed concerning all political matters. M. S. Quay, of Beaver County, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, has his office here, and probably there is no one man in the State who has more experience or more knowledge of State affairs.

To people out of the State Senator Cameron appears the head of the party, the great political dictator, and the blame of whatever is bad in Pennsylvania politics is heaped upon his head, and he never gets any credit for what is well done. That he has exercised great power in the State is certainly true. That he exercises less now is equally certain, though what may perhaps be termed the Cameron organization and the Cameron method of political management will remain impressed upon the State long after he shall have passed away. Whatever may be popularly supposed about it, the party is not now, at least, a machine for the registration of his will.

Yesterday I called upon him and was kindly received. We had a long talk. Pennsylvania politics had a fair share of attention. He spoke of national affairs and the new appointment of Secretary of the Interior and the character of the Indian Bureau service. He kindly remarked, as I was taking leave, that he was glad to have a call from me, or from any gentleman of the press who would not rush off and print all he had to say. Some of his talk had been so free, and in a manner confidential, that I would not have taken the liberty to transcribe it, even without this delicate reminder. I do not think he would object to my saying that he expressed himself most emphatically on the "third term" question, and that he is unqualifiedly opposed to a third term for President Grant or any President hereafter. "If we elect a President for a third term," said he, "what excuse could there be for a change at the end of that time more than at any other which should not be a reflection upon his Administration, and why not go on re-electing the same President as long as he lived?"

SENATOR CAMERON CONFIDENT OF A REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Senator Cameron confirmed in general terms what I have written of the prospects in the State. He has just returned from Lycoming and Clinton Counties, and says the Republicans there are confident of making gains. The lumbering interests are in a very depressed condition. Great quantities of lumber are piled up which cannot be sold for the cost of manufacture. The operations of next Winter will be reduced very greatly. Some losses in the lumber region would not be surprising, but the information received is that the average Republican vote will be increased. That was what Senator Cameron had heard. But he said that the greatest possible defection of the lumber interests could not affect more than 1,000 votes. He was entirely confident of the State. He admitted that if the Republicans should prove mistaken in their information about Allegheny County, and it should go Democratic, as it did last year, and if the Democratic claims of great gains in the anthracite coal region should prove well founded, the election of Hartranft might be endangered. But he believes the Republicans will carry Allegheny County and hold their own among the miners, and in that case the result is beyond all doubt. He seems to be entirely confident. So are the other Republicans here.

THE UNKNOWN QUANTITIES IN THE CANVASS.

As in every canvass there are some ifs. There are some unknown quantities in the problem. Before the Erie Convention the temperance question threatened to be a troublesome issue. Last year the Democratic plurality for Lieutenant Governor was a little less than the vote for the Prohibition candidate, which was 4,792. The currency question having assumed so unimportant a position in the canvass, the temperance vote will be increased, and it is variously estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000. The Republican Committee has undertaken to learn exactly what it will be, and will have pretty exact information in a day or two. The miners are a cause of anxiety to both parties. The Welsh miners are generally Republicans, and if they should leave the party this year the defection would be unfortunate for the ticket. From all that is known they have no intention of changing. But Trevellick, the miserable demagogue and Communist, has been sent among them, and the Democrats are doing all in their power to create dissatisfaction and trouble. An effort has been made to stimulate fears of the companies stopping work. It seems that one or two of the companies have shipped more than they ought under the contracts between them, and they will have to work short for a while, perhaps, to enable the other companies to catch up with their shipments. There is no prospect of any further cessation than this. Unless there should be some unexpected catastrophe to the mining interest there is no danger of Democratic gains.

Giving the Democrats the advantage of all possible doubtful quantities, a Republican victory would still be probable, while with a fair share of the uncertainties decided favorably to the Republicans, Hartranft's majority will be very large. To-day, Gov. Hartranft is here, and Gov. Hayes is stopping with him over Sunday. Hartranft's progress through the State is awakening a great deal of enthusiasm. Though not a great speaker, he has a great deal of personal magnetism and is exceedingly popular. Gov. Hayes is winning applause and regard wherever he goes, and he is meeting, as he did in Ohio, the issues of the canvass in a frank, manly, thoughtful way. The Democrats have brought "the Ancient Governor" over to make a tour through Western Pennsylvania, but from what is said among them outside of Mr. Wright's committee it would seem that Gov. Allen does not inspire the unterrified. They ought by all means to procure the services of Sam Cary, (which are now to be had at a moderate price,) and send him round with the broken-winded Piollet. This precious pair together would create a decided sensation.

The greatest labor with both parties will be to get out their votes. If the general apparent lack of interest and excitement among the people is not deceptive, the aggregate polled will be quite moderate. From all appearances, however, the greater sluggishness is on the Democratic side, and their leaders see it and feel it. The Republican organization of the State will help them in this respect, and give them the advantage. It may be that the seeming lack of interest is not real, and that the people are quietly but thoughtfully considering the issues, and are intending to vote. There is some evidence of a deep current which nobody can measure, and if it exists it may flow in a direction and with a force that will surprise everybody by the result when the vote is counted.

THE LATE GEN. PICKETT.

FUNERAL PROCESSION AND CEREMONIES IN RICHMOND (VA.) YESTERDAY.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 24.—The obsequies of Gen. George E. Pickett took place this afternoon, and the demonstration was indeed worthy of the gallant soldier. The entire populace of Richmond, together with thousands of visitors from other points, were en masse. The streets along which the procession moved were in many cases so crowded with spectators that the movements of the line were greatly impeded. Many private houses were tastefully draped in mourning and flags at different points half-masted. The procession was composed of the First Virginia Regiment as escort, the Corps of Cadets from the Virginia Military Institute, Monticello Guard from Charlotteville, Attucks Guard, (colored,) the old First Virginia Regiment, the Association of the Veterans of the Army of Northern Virginia, the Richmond and Petersburg Commanderies of Knights Templar, the State and city executive officers, the relatives and friends of the deceased, and many prominent Virginians and private citizens in carriages, the entire line being nearly a mile and a half in length. The remains were conveyed to Hollywood Cemetery, where they were interred with appropriate ceremonies. It is estimated that not less than forty thousand people witnessed the procession, and that there were about five thousand in the line.

DISHONEST STEAMBOAT INSPECTORS

CHARGES AGAINST SUPERVISING INSPECTOR LOW AND INSPECTOR MATTHEWS—THE CHARGES PROBABLY SUSTAINED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Some time ago charges were preferred against Addison Low, Supervising Inspector of Steamboats and Boilers for the Second District, which embraces the Atlantic coast and tributary rivers from Maine to the Delaware capes, and John K. Matthews, Local Inspector of Boilers at New-York. It is alleged against those two officers that at various times they received fees for inspecting vessels at night; that they have made charges for fictitious transportation of pumps alleged to have been used for testing boilers; that after suits had been commenced against owners of steam-boats for over-crowding, they gave such owners special permits to cover the excess of passengers carried. A special agent of the Treasury Department was sent to New-York to investigate these charges, and the result of his investigation has been presented to the Secretary of the Treasury in an elaborate report. The purport of the report has not been made known, but it is known that Inspector Low is now engaged in taking testimony in his own behalf, which leads to the inference that the report of the special agent is unfavorable to Messrs. Low and Matthews.

SUDDEN DEATH WHILE TRAVELING.

RUTLAND, Vt., Oct. 24.—Warren Adams, of Ludlow, Vt., started this morning to drive to Rutland. His horse and buggy, without the driver, were found on the road at Mount Holly by a boy, who stopped the horse, and getting into the wagon, drove back a short distance and found Mr. Adams beside the road in a dying condition. He soon afterward died. The particulars are not known now, but it is supposed he had a fit and fell from the wagon.

WHISKY FRAUDS IN CANADA.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—On information received from Collector Simpson, Francis P. Stewart has been arrested on a charge of passing large quantities of brandy, gin, and wine from his bonded warehouse without paying duty. Omer Allard Locker and Achilles Vibond, Customs officers, have also been arrested on a charge of aiding and abetting the fraud. The prisoners were held in heavy bail.

FOUR THIEVES ARRESTED.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Four notorious thieves named George Davis alias George Gisner, James Farrell, James Wilson, and Edward Farrell were arrested here to-day with a quantity of ready-made clothing in their possession. They form two parties. Wilson and Edward Farrell are believed to have obtained their goods by burglary in a store in the south-western part of the State.

SUPPOSED MURDER.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Oct. 24.—A young man named Harry Crouse was found dead near Sharpsburg Station about 2 o'clock this morning A bloody trail leading from a coal-yard near where the body was found leads to the supposition that he was shot in the yard, and that his strength failed before he could reach assistance. No clue has been found to the murderer.

A RAILROAD APPOINTMENT.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 24.—Col. Thomas McKissock, late General Superintendent of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railroad, and one of the oldest railroad men in Missouri, has been appointed General Superintendent of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railroad in place of Col. W. R. Arthur, who recently resigned that position.

FURTHER DETAILS OF MR. POND'S RASCALITIES.

The Worcester (Mass.) Gazette, of the 23d inst., says: "Notes which have been altered by Mr. Pond continue to be discovered, and how many are held in New-York, Boston, and other cities, may perhaps never be known. One note, not yet due, was examined in one of the banks this morning, which had been discounted on its face of $2,000. The indorsement was all right, but the application of nutgalls showed the amount to have been originally $1,000. The date, which is comparatively recent, had not being changed, but the amount only. The indorser will in this case probably be held for the $1,000, and the bank will have to lose the other $1,000. Many notes prove to have been used three times over, having been erased and written again twice. It does not appear that the indorsers have been so careless as was at first supposed. One gentleman, for instance, who had a memorandum of $8,000 in indorsements, and had promised $10,000, was astonished to find that he was in for $30,000. The secret of this mystery was of course that some of the old notes paid and, as he supposed, destroyed, had been kept and altered and discounted over again. For a man of Mr. Pond's standing, to loan him $10,000 was not in itself perhaps a great risk. Of course, nobody could have suspected the wholesale manufacture of these new securities. Indeed, if anybody had suggested such a thing as forgery the day after he disappeared he would have risked being mobbed, so great was the friendship felt for Mr. Pond by all classes of citizens. We learn that although the alteration of these notes does not correspond to the popular idea of forgery, since Mr. Pond signed his own name, yet it is probably equivalent to forgery. When Government bonds have been altered so as to raise the amounts, it has been held to be forgery."

MOODY AND SANKEY.

THEIR LABORS IN BROOKLYN BEGUN

TWO IMMENSE MEETINGS IN THE BROOKLYN RINK—THE REVIVALISTS ASSISTED BY BROOKLYN PREACHERS—FIFTY THOUSAND PEOPLE IN AND ABOUT THE RINK DURING THE AFTERNOON—SERVICES TO-DAY.

The labors of Messrs. Moody and Sankey in this vicinity had a successful beginning yesterday morning. As early as 7 o'clock the streets of Brooklyn presented the unwonted spectacle of long streams of well-dressed men and women hurriedly moving in the direction of the Rink. All the cars running from the New-York ferries, as well as from East and South Brooklyn and other outlying points, were crowded to their utmost capacity.

The building was filled to its utmost capacity both morning and afternoon, and at the latter service two adjacent churches were thrown open for supplementary services without perceptibly diminishing the throng that sought in vain admittance to the Rink. In the morning Mr. Moody read a chapter from the Bible and preached. Mr. Sankey sang several hymns. Dr. Budington offered prayer and Dr. Cuyler pronounced the benediction. In the afternoon the exercises were similar, Dr. Talmage offering the prayer and Dr. Ingalls pronouncing the benediction.

THE MORNING SERVICE.

FERVENT RECEPTION OF THE REVIVALISTS—THE EXERCISES BEGUN WITH PRAYER BY DR. BUDINGTON—MR. SANKEY'S HYMNS—MR. MOODY'S FIRST SERMON IN BROOKLYN.

By 8 o'clock the vast edifice was filled in every part, and the Vanderbilt and Clermont avenue entrances were choked with masses of human beings for whom there appeared to be no hope of an entrance. Still, and up to the hour of beginning, people continued to pour along, swelling the crowds at the doors until half the adjacent streets were crowded. New-York, Jersey City, and even places hundreds of miles distant, were largely represented. Many came in carriages. It was not an assemblage derived from the poor and ignorant classes. Almost everybody was well dressed, and the sea of faces stretching back from the platform bore general signs of intelligence. In every direction were to be recognized prominent members of the local churches. On the large platform in front of the immense choir, sat Rev. Drs. Talmage, Prime, Duryea, Lyman, Budington, Cuyler, and other Brooklyn divines. Alderman Richardson, Mr. Stuart of Philadelphia, and other prominent laymen were mingled with the clergymen on the platform. Nearly a hundred reporters and correspondents of provincial newspapers were provided with tables and chairs below the platform. A congregation of young gentlemen from the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian Association wearing red and white gold-lettered badges acted as ushers. Long before 8:30 o'clock not an available inch of space remained unoccupied. The 5,500 chairs on the main floor, the two side galleries, and the rear gallery were taken, and thousands stood on the stairs, in the aisles, in the doorways, and in every nook and cranny of the building. Fully two-thirds of the assemblage were men, and four-fifths of these young men. At 8:25 the untaken reserved seats on the platform were given up to the nearest of those standing, and the duties of the ushers became confined to informing the tardy that there was no more room. At exactly 8:30 Mr. Moody suddenly appeared in the raised box or pulpit in the central front of the large platform, and without ceremony said in a loud voice, "Let us open the services by singing the twenty-fourth hymn." He then proceeded to read the first stanza, and sat down. He is a well-built man, with a small, shapely head, small features, a full brown beard, and a red face, indicative of jollity and good humor. He wore clothes of a clerical cut. At the same moment a square-built, solid-looking man, with a smiling face, and dark curly hair, dark moustache and side whiskers, seated himself at a small organ on Mr. Moody's right, and said "Please rise and sing heartily." This was Mr. Sankey. Both are of medium height, and in the full bloom of manhood. The vast congregation, which had been hushed into wondering silence, arose with a loud rustle of garments, and the rafters re-echoed with the slow measure of the following hymn:

Rejoice and be glad!
The Redeemer has come!
Go look on His cradle, His cross, and His tomb.

CHORUS.—Sound His praises, tell the story
Of Him who was slain:
Sound His praises, tell with gladness,
He liveth again.

Rejoice and be glad!
It is sunshine at last!
The clouds have departed, the shadows are past.

Rejoice and be glad!
For the blood hath been shed;
Redemption is finished, the prices hath been paid.

Rejoice and be glad!
Now the pardon is free!
The Just for the unjust has died on the tree.

Rejoice and be glad!
For the Lamb that was slain
O'er death is triumphant and liveth again.

Rejoice and be glad!
For our King is on high;
He pleadeth for us on His throne in the sky.

Rejoice and be glad!
For He cometh again;
He cometh in glory, the Lamb that was slain.

Loud responses of "Amen!" greeted its close. Without waiting for the cessation of the noise of the immense body seating themselves, Mr. Moody sprang up, and, throwing his arms above him, said: "Let us unite in prayer." Dr. Budington, who had during the singing, in answer to Mr. Moody's nod, entered the pulpit-box, then stepped to the front and offered an earnest prayer for the success of the evangelists' labors.

As Dr. Budington retired Mr. Moody sprang to his feet and said, "Let us continue the worship by singing the eighty-seventh hymn." Mr. Sankey added: "Let all rise and sing heartily." The command was promptly obeyed, and the hymn, beginning as follows, was rendered in thunder tones:

Lord, I hear of showers of blessing
Thou art scattering full and free—.
Showers the thirsty land refreshing;
Let some droppings fall on me—
CHORUS.—Even me, even me,
Let Thy blessing fall on me.

As the singing ended Mr. Moody was again on his feet, saying: "I will read for you a part of the thirteenth chapter of Numbers, beginning at the twenty-fifth verse." He then read in such a rapid manner as to cause him frequently to hesitate and repeat part of a sentence, but with perfect distinctness.

"A strange kind of a report that, ain't it?" said Mr. Moody suddenly, looking up and laughing. "I never heard of such a report as that being made to Congress. Did you? A land 'flowing with milk and honey,' yet one that 'eateth up the people!' There was not much danger that the Israelites would starve there. They saw 'great giants,' yet it was a land that 'eateth up the people'!" Having read a dozen more verses, Mr. Moody said:

"I would ask Mr. Sankey to sing the 120th hymn alone." He then closed his book and dropped into his chair. In a clear, ringing voice, amid the profoundest silence, Mr. Sankey complied. Following is the hymn:

Hark! the voice of Jesus crying—
"Who will go and work to-day?
Fields are white and harvest waiting;
Who will bear the sheaves away?"
Loud and strong the Master calleth,
Rich reward He offers thee;
Who will answer, gladly saying,
"Here am I; send me, send me!"

If you cannot cross the ocean,
And the heathen lands explore,
You can find the heathen nearer,
You can help them at your door.
If you cannot give your thousands,
You can give the widow's mite;
And the least you do for Jesus
Will be precious in His sight.

If you cannot speak like angels,
If you cannot preach like Paul,

You can tell the love of Jesus,
 You can say He died for all.
If you cannot rouse the wicked
 With the judgment's dread alarms,
You can lead the little children
 To the Saviour's waiting arms.

If you cannot be the watchman,
 Standing high on Zion's wall,
Pointing out the path to heaven,
 Offering life and peace to all;—
With your prayers and with your bounties
 You can do what heaven demands;
You can be like faithful Aaron,
 Holding up the prophet's hands.

If among the older people,
 You may not be apt to teach;
"Feed my lambs," said Christ, our Shepherd,
 "Place the food within their reach."
And it may be that the children
 You have led with trembling hand,
Will be found among your jewels,
 When you reach the better land.

Let none hear you idly saying
 "There is nothing I can do,"
While the souls of men are dying,
 And the Master calls for you.
Take the task he gives you gladly,
 Let His work your pleasure be;
Answer quickly when He calleth,
 "Here am I; send me, send me!"

During the singing the growing excitement was manifested by a swaying of bodies in time to the metre all over the room, and toward the end of the fourth stanza many persons had their handkerchiefs to their eyes. A loud murmur followed the close.

THE SERMON.

"I want to call your attention for a few moments to a part of the thirtieth verse of the chapter I have just read to you," said Mr. Moody abruptly. "Let us go up at once and possess it, for we are well able to overcome it." There has been a cry heard throughout the nation during the past twelve months for a revival. It has come from all quarters, and a great many are standing off and watching to see what will become of it. I was very much amused the other day to see in a newspaper the statement that "the revival in Philadelphia had been postponed for one month;" as if any one could tell when a revival was to take place or could postpone one. It comes in God's time and when he wills, and nobody has the power to hurry or to hinder him. I believe that there is only one way to hinder God from working, and that lies in the mean, devilish unbelief that exists in the Church of God. Why, the world hasn't got the power of keeping God from working. All the unbelievers out of the Church can't hinder Him one bit. [Hear.] It is the unbelief inside the Church that is alone able to do it. Now, the question comes, Shall we cross into Paran and Kadesh? Shall we go up and take the land? [Yes.] There is no trouble about it. We are able to go up and overcome it. If God be with us who can be against us? What has God got on this sin-cursed earth to delight in but his own flock? Let, then, the question be decided this morning that we are able to get up and possess the land. [Cries of "Amen."] You remember that the Israelites sent twelve spies into Paran and Kadesh to reconnoitre. I suppose they wanted to see if God's word was true. That's always the way with unbelievers. God had said to them, "Go over. I'll help you. It will be yours. It's a land flowing with milk and honey. All you've got to do is to go and take it." But they thought they would first find out for themselves what it was worth, and whether they would be able to take it. So they sent twelve spies, and perhaps these brought back maps of the country and charts of the walls and bulwarks. Anyhow, they brought back what we would call, in these days a majority and a minority report. Ten said that it would be impossible to take the country. All admitted that what God had told them was true about the milk and honey. Only Caleb and Joshua confirmed the Lord in regard to taking the land. All admitted that the land was good, but ten said they saw giants and walls and castles, and that the Israelites would not be able to overcome these. I can imagine these fellows in camp, telling their comrades that they had stood alongside these giants and had been obliged to look up to see their faces, and that they were to them but as grasshoppers. When we are unbelievers we are but as grasshoppers, but when we believe, the giants become as grasshoppers. [Amen!] When we believe we are able to overcome giants and walls and everything. [Amen! Bless the Lord!] A lie generally travels faster than the truth. It is an old saying that a lie will go round the world before the truth can get his boots on to follow him. The world always seems to rejoice whenever anything goes wrong with religion.

THE VIRTUE OF BELIEF.

So thus he went round the camp and found favor with the Jews. "I would rather go back to Egypt and make bricks without straw again. I would rather hear the crack of the slaveholder's whip again than encounter these terrors." That's the way the Israelites talked, and that is the talk of the unbeliever. [Murmurs.] I am one of the spies sent out to look at the promised land. I have found it flowing with milk and honey. Let us say whether we fear anything now. Let us go up at once and take the land. I tell you that it is good. If Caleb's voice had prevailed the Israelites might have saved forty years in the wilderness. To-day I say that four-fifths of the professed children are not able to reach the land, simply on account of their unbelief. Many persons have told me that I mustn't expect so great a success as I had in the old country. If I don't expect it I won't have it. [Cries of "No!" and "Amen!"] We must go at once and take the land. We are able to do it. "Their defense has gone from them." How easy it is for God to pour out His blessings in such profusion that we will not be able to receive them. That was the difference between Caleb and Joshua and the ten. The ten got their eyes on the walls and the giants, but Caleb and Joshua lifted theirs above and saw Him on His throne. They said that it was easy for God to give them that country as He promised. They remembered how easily He had taken them across the Red Sea; how He had fed them with manna in the wilderness, and how He had made the water gush forth from the barren rock. If God wishes to aid you then you are well able to go up and take the land. That is the difference between a man who has God with him, and the one who has not. The greatest difficulty we have to encounter is, therefore, the mean, devilish unbelief so current among Christians. Oh! would that God would sweep it away. [He will.] Our God is able to do it. [Yes, glory and amen.] Let us not limit the power of the Holy One of Israel. Look upward and see Him who sitteth on the right hand of God, and press forward. "I'll give you the land," He says. What will the rumsellers and the unbelievers do then? They can't hinder God's work, but they will come and be converted, and will become a blessing.

GIDEON'S ARMY.

If we don't expect a blessing we don't get it. Look at Gideon. He had 30,000 men. God said that that was too many. They would all take their share of the glory of the victory, and there was no need of dividing it up so small. We must take our place in the dust, and give God the glory, if we want to do any good. "You've got too many," said God; "let all who are afraid step out. Twenty-two thousand stepped out! Poor Gideon! I'd like to have seen him then. His faith must have been a little shaky. It was like a meeting I once attended, when some persons went out. The others, attracted by the noise, stood up, and it looked as if all were going. "Ten thousand left," said God; "that's still too many." Then 9,700 more stepped out, leaving but 300; but they were 300 such men as Caleb and Joshua. There was no power that could stand against them. I think it was John Wesley who once said that if he had 300 believing Christians he would shake the gates of hell and set God up in the world. I believe he could have done it. ["Let us go up and take the land," in a stentorian voice from the middle of the room.] Another thought that I wish to impress upon you. You must learn the lesson to let God work in His own way. We are not to mark out the way for Him. [Yes.] We must say "God, you are sovereign; here I am, use me if you will." We must let God use us or set us aside as He chooses. We have got to get rid of the I's. There is no position from which He can be so glorified. You'll find that His ways are not our ways. They generally come in the opposite direction from those we expected. Who would ever have thought of taking Jericho with a lot of rams' horns but God? If there had been so many reporters around Jericho at that time as there are here what fun they would have made of the plan of battle. [Laughter.] Think of seven priests of our day going to take a fortified city by simply blowing upon rams' horns. How would Dr. Talmage and Dr. Budington and Bishop Potter look marching in single file blowing rams' horns? [Laughter.] Why they should have silver bugles at least if we had our way. God may use an empty pitcher in preference to a full one. He may lay down the iron and take up the straw to thrash the mountain. He makes use of the weak and despises the strong things very often in His work. God will only work in His own way. So let us learn the lesson—not try and make out a way for Him. Another lesson we must learn is, that if we wish to become children of Jesus we must have faith in order to be worked. In Scotland I heard a preacher express the idea well. He said that many of the Israelites believed that God could kill Goliath with a stone from a sling, but only one believed that he would do it. We must believe that God will give us success. Amen.

WHO MAY DO GOOD.

There is not a little child that He can't use if He wishes. If we want to do good we must come down to individual effort—the man upon his comrade, the woman upon her neighbor, and the young man upon the other young man. If I had the voice of an angel I would like to ask the 40,000 ministers, "Shall we go up and take the land at once?" If we do we have got to go to work; we have to give way to the Lord; we have got to bid farewell to the world—to stop parties and festivals and lectures. [A chorus of amens.] This is the one thing we have got to make up our minds to do—to go up at once. (Turning to the platform.) Dr. Budington, are you ready?

Dr. Budington—Yes.

Mr. Moody—Dr. Cuyler, are you ready?

Dr. Cuyler—Yes.

Mr. Moody—Mr. Stuart, of Philadelphia, are you ready?

Mr. Stuart—All ready. [Cries of "Yes," "Amen," and a shout, "Hurrah."]

Mr. Moody—Thank God for these manifestations of His spirit. We will go up at once and take the land. I'd like to ask the 70,000 teachers of America, "Is there not one Sabbath scholar that you can lead into the way?" Only think! Seventy thousand pairs of feet at once on the way to Zion. I'd like to ask the 100,000 members of the Young Men's Christian Associations, "Shall we rise and cross to Paran and Kadesh?" O God! may Thy spirit descend upon us this morning! [Cries of "Amen."] Mayst Thou use us according to Thy will for good. I want Mr. Sankey to sing "Only an armor-bearer." Mr. Sankey, after requesting the congregation to rise and join in the chorus, obeyed as follows:

Only an armor-bearer, proudly I stand,
Waiting to follow at the King's command;
Marching if "onward" shall the order be,
Standing by my Captain, serving faithfully.

CHORUS:
 Hear ye the battle-cry! "Forward" the call!
 See! see the faltering ones! backward they fall.
 Surely the Captain may depend on me,
 Though but an armor-bearer I may be.

Only an armor-bearer, now in the field,
Guarding a shining helmet, sword, and shield,
Waiting to hear the thrilling battle-cry,
Ready then to answer, "Master, here am I."

Only an armor-bearer, yet may I share
Glory immortal, and a bright crown wear;
If, in the battle, to my trust I'm true,
Mine shall be the honors in the Grand Review.

Dr. Cuyler pronounced the benediction, and the streets soon filled with people wearing flushed faces and excitedly gesticulating. A party of young men marched down Fulton avenue loudly singing a hymn.

THE AFTERNOON SERVICE.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE TURNED AWAY FROM THE RINK—TWO ADJACENT CHURCHES THROWN OPEN AND SERVICES HELD.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Vanderbilt and Clermont avenues, from De Kalb to Myrtle avenue, were completely filled with struggling men and women waiting to get into the Rink. The tops of hundreds of liveried carriages appeared above the heads of the crowd. Politicians, clergymen, and distinguished persons of all callings were visible at every step. The moment the doors were thrown open there was a rush that carried away one of the sign-boards at the side of the Clermont avenue entrance. The jam was terrible and the confusion indescribable. The more prudent attempted to struggle out of the crowd, but the torrent was too impetuous to stem, and hundreds were carried bodily forward against their will. Crushing, tearing, and panting, the two masses whirled in through the narrow portals, and a scramble for seats was begun. The precaution had been taken to seat the choir, clergy, and press before opening the doors. In five minutes after opening the doors an order was given to close them and admit no more. Almost twice as many were thus barred out as got in. Long after the services had begun the adjacent streets continued to be as thickly blocked as before the opening of the doors, and for blocks on every side streams of people still poured backward and forward—the tardy ones going toward the Rink, and the less enthusiastic of those who had come early returning homeward in disgust. For those who would not be driven away the Simpson M. E. Church and the North Reformed Church, in the vicinity, were thrown open, and services were held by Dr. Cuyler, Rev. Mr. Morton, and others. Mr. Sankey visited both at the conclusion of the Rink services, and sang for the two congregations. Even after both these edifices had been filled to repletion a seemingly undiminished assemblage held possession of the street until long after all was over. At least 20,000 persons must have attempted to enter the Rink yesterday afternoon. In that building the assembly was not greater than in the morning, for the reason that it was then filled to its utmost capacity, aisles and all, despite the rule requiring the ushers to keep all passage-ways clear. In appearance the crowd was similar also to that of the morning, but in reality its composition was different. The front of the platform was occupied by nearly the same distinguished gentlemen as in the morning. Mr. Sankey arrived early. Seeing the hall filled, he arose and proposed that some preliminary singing should occupy the time until the arrival of his co-laborer. The congregation were willing, and three hymns were then sung in succession, the following being sung with unusual effect:

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
 Safe on His gentle breast,
There by His love o'ershaded,
 Sweetly my soul shall rest.
Hark 'tis the voice of angels,
 Borne in a song to me,
Over the fields of glory,
 Over the jasper sea.

CHORUS.—Safe in the arms of Jesus,
 Safe on His gentle breast,
 There by His love o'ershaded,
 Sweetly my soul shall rest.

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
 Safe from corroding care,
Safe from the world's temptations
 Sin cannot harm me there.
Free from the blight of sorrow,
 Free from my doubts and fears;
Only a few more trials,
 Only a few more tears!

Jesus, my heart's dear refuge,
 Jesus has died for me;
Firm on the Rock of Ages
 Ever my trust shall be.
Here let me wait with patience,
 Wait till the night is o'er;
Wait till I see the morning
 Break on the golden shore.

At this point Mr. Moody entered and at once commenced the regular services by giving out the fifty-sixth hymn, which was sung by Mr. Sankey, the choir and congregation joining in the refrain. Following are the first stanza and chorus:

The great Physician now is near,
 The sympathising Jesus:
He speaks the drooping heart to cheer,
 Oh, hear the voice of Jesus.

CHORUS—Sweetest note in seraph song,
 Sweetest name on mortal tongue,
 Sweetest carol ever sung,
 Jesus, blessed Jesus.

Dr. Talmage then offered a prayer, in which he said that yesterday would be memorable for 10,000 years, because of the uncounted multitude who were about to be turned to Jesus. The thirty-fifth hymn was then sung.

Mr. Moody requested the congregation to be quiet, as the Gospel was the most important part of the service, and read, without comment, the 15th chapter of Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians.

He then requested Mr. Sankey to sing the sixth hymn alone. Mr. Sankey stepped in front of the organ, and, addressing the congregation, said: "Let us offer up prayer that God may bless our hymns. Our heavenly Father! we come in the name of Jesus, bearing the message of His love, to sing to-day. Make use of our little song, 'Ninety and Nine,' to bring many a soul here to Thee. Thou hast used it well in times gone by. Grant that we may to-day get a glimpse of the Shepherd after His lost ones. We remember to have seen Thee thus when we were on the mountains of sin, and Thou tookest then the lost one back to the fold. What Thou gavest to ourselves we thank Thee for, and we ask for the same blessing for others. Oh God, bless these hymns, and praise be to Thy name forevermore."

A loud murmur followed the prayer, which caused Mr. Moody to again arise and ask for quiet. Mr. Sankey, who had meantime retired behind the organ, then sang with pronounced effect the following:

There were ninety and nine that safely lay
 In the shelter of the fold,
But one was out on the hills away,
 Far off from the gates of gold—
Away on the mountains wild and bare,
Away from the tender Shepherd's care.

"Lord, thou hast here Thy ninety and nine,
 Are they not enough for Thee?"
But the Shepherd made answer: "'Tis of mine
 Has wandered away from me;
And although the road be rough and steep,
I go to the desert to find my sheep."

But none of the ransomed ever knew
 How deep were the waters crossed;
Nor how dark the night that the Lord passed through
 Ere He found His sheep that was lost.
Out of the desert He heard its cry—
Sick and helpless, and ready to die.

"Lord, whence are those blood-drops all the way
 That mark out the mountain's track?"
"They were shed for one who had gone astray
 Ere the Shepherd could bring him back."
"Lord, whence are Thy hands so rent and torn?"
"They are pierced to-day by many a thorn."

But all through the mountains, thunder-riven,
 And up from the rocky steep,
There rose a cry to the gates of heaven,
 "Rejoice! I have found my sheep!"
And the angels echoed around the throne,
"Rejoice, for the Lord brings back His own!"

THE SERMON.

Mr. Moody then stood up, and, opening his Bible, said: I want to call your attention to a part of the first verse of the fifteen chapter of the first epistle of Paul to the Corinthians: "Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the Gospel, which I preached unto you." Now, then, although we live in a Christian land, where the Gospel has been proclaimed during 100 years, there is no word which is so little understood as the word gospel, and I firmly believe there are a great many who attend church regularly who don't know its meaning. I think it would be well for all such persons to take up their dictionary and find out as soon as possible the meaning of the word. If the word gospel means glad tidings, then there need be no long faces here this afternoon. If the gospel means good news, then let the wrinkle of sorrow and of trouble disappear from your faces, for good news is ever welcome. Let a messenger bring a dispatch containing good news to any one here, and the face will light up with pleasure. If it contains the news that a son who has long been wandering from home is returning, and it reads "Father, I will be at home to-morrow," why that father cannot wait until this sermon is through, but he turns to the one beside him and he whispers, "Wife, I have good news for you; our son is coming home." So it is when the Gospel is preached. It is good news, and the people have a right to rejoice. The Gospel is good tidings. It is the best news that ever fell on mortal ears. It is the best news that ever came from heaven. The shepherds said, "Behold, we bring you good news," and Paul says, "If man preach any other gospel, let him be accursed." I believe, however, we live in an age when other than the true gospel is preached. Not long ago a preacher came to me and said, "Brother Moody, either you or I am wrong; which is it? There is a difference in our preaching. You preach the death and I the life of Christ." I answered him, "then what do you say to this: 'Who His own self bore our sins in His own body on the tree.'" He answered me, "I never preached on that." Then I said to him, "Or this: 'According to the scriptures, Christ died for our sins.'" Again he answered, "I never preached on that." "Then what do you preach?" I asked him. "Why, I preach moral essays." He didn't believe that Christ died for the lost world. If his doctrine is the true one, then I wouldn't know what to do with the atonement. Read what was preached on the day of Pentecost. Then the Holy Ghost fell upon them, and the cry arose, "Men and brethren what shall we do to be saved?"

PRIMITIVE CHRISTIANITY.

My friends, we want to get back to primitive Christianity. We want to remember how the Holy Ghost fell upon Cornelius. We must take up our Bibles and read of Philip, who was sent into the wilderness, where he preached the Gospel. What was that gospel? It was that Christ died for the poor Eunuch. Take up the Bible and read Paul's sermon at Antioch. What did he preach? It was that Christ died for the whole world. Paul went down to Corinth and preached that Christ died for us. Paul's gospel was: Christ lived; He died and was buried; the third day he arose again. That is all there is worth knowing. That explains exactly why the Gospel is good news. I want to testify right here that I never heard any better news. It is glorious news. It is the best news that ever was delivered. It has removed my bitterest enemies. It has taught me that all my sins against God have been forgiven, and that God alone can forgive sins. Then, if God don't forgive us no one can. He has taken all my sins and cast them behind his back. If God has hid my sins away, then they will never have any resurrection; but if He has not put them away, then they will come back again. "Be sure your sins will find you out." How all those who have been redeemed by the blood of the Lamb should rejoice to-day!

But, my beloved brethren, another enemy has been taken from us. Not only have our sins been washed away, but death has lost its sting. "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin." Thank God that the sting of death is gone. Before my sins were put away death was a horrid monster. Then the saddest hour to all was when death would come. But thank God all that sadness is gone now, and the believer shouts, "O death, where is thy sting?" Take the sting out of a wasp, and it possesses no more harm than a fly. And so it is with death. The child of God has nothing to fear. Let death come on this platform and I have nothing to fear. Death is gain now. Back here in Northfield, where I was brought up, they used a bell to toll the age of those who died. I used to count the strokes, and when it sounded but a few times I said that death was among those of my own age, and I used to shudder. I couldn't rest well; but that is all over now, thank God. I used to look down into the grave, and when I heard the sound of the falling clods of dirt strike on the box below it used to strike a death knell upon my youthful heart. But it does not do so now.

THE BURIAL OF CHRIST.

My brethren, if you could have been at that tomb where Christ was buried, you would have seen Death laughing, and you would have heard him say, "I've got him now." But wait awhile. Messengers came down from heaven and rolled away the stone from the mouth of the sepulchre. He burst His bonds and he arose again. I pity the man who knows nothing of the Son of God. I know, and I wish every one else knew, that there is a voice to be heard by and by. The dead will hear His voice, and there will be an arising of the dead. I think it was a good thing that Christ called Lazarus by name, for otherwise all the dead would have arisen. Some time ago I was called upon to preach a funeral sermon, and I thought I should preach like Christ, and so I looked into my Bible, and when I had examined all that He had said, I found that He had never preached funeral sermons. Death cannot be while He is around.

There is another thing, and that is the judgment day. I used to think that would be a terrible day. But presently I found we are not coming into judgment. He judged for me at Calvary. Perhaps some will say right here, "Then if He judged for us at Calvary, what will you do with that passage in Corinthians?" Why, my dear brethren, that passage merely requires an account of stewardship and not of sin. "Verily, I say unto you." My brethren, when you see that word "verily," you may always know something good is coming. "Verily I say unto you, he that heareth my word and believeth on Him that sent me hath everlasting life." If you want to get on a good platform, why, get on John v., 24. Is there one reason why all here should not get on that platform? Brother Stuart, [turning to a reverend gentleman near him,] is there any reason you can give why hundreds here should not be saved to-day? Brother Budington, [turning to another,] can you give any reason why hundreds here should not be saved? [Both these gentlemen answered in the negative.] Brethren, we come to tell you that if you believe you will never be brought into judgment, for I tell you that Christ was brought to judgment for you. Far out in the Western land, when the frontiersman discovers the prairie is on fire he knows he cannot fly before it and escape, and so he starts another blaze, and sets the grass before him on fire and he sees to it that it burns all around him, until presently he has a large opening cleared where he stands secure. He knows he is safe, for when the flames come upon the borders of his retreat, lo! there is no more fuel for them to feed upon.

A PEAK GOD HAS SWEPT OVER.

There is one mountain peak which God has swept over, and that is Mount Calvary. Christ has died in your stead. Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. All you have got to do to be saved is to acknowledge your sins. Prove you've been a sinner and I'll prove you are to be saved. If you have any trouble in proving it, ask some of your neighbors. Perhaps they will bear testimony as to your sinfulness. When I was in Paris a friend told me that during the Franco-Prussian war he and some others went out one night with ambulances to visit a battle-field. While they were taking up the wounded night came on, and fearing to draw down upon them the enemy's fire, they did not dare to make a light. But as they were coming away they shouted aloud, "Is there any one here who needs the ambulance?" and from out the darkness came voices answering, "Come to us; we are still alive!" They wanted help, and they shouted aloud, "Oh! come to us." Let those here who think they need help shout aloud: "O Great Shepherd, save my soul from hell!" Many here are saying by this time: "Why, this man is preaching the same old thing we've heard for years. I thought I should hear something new." No, Sir; we've no new doctrine to teach you. We've nothing but the good old Gospel. We teach it the same as it was always taught. I love it the same as ever. When I get tired of it I'll go back to farming, for I'll have nothing else to do. It is the same good old Gospel we preach to you. Take Him to your house with you. Read His words, for there is nothing better in the whole world.

"Now," added Mr. Moody, "let us all rise and sing 'There is a fountain filled with blood.'" This was done, and then Rev. Dr. Inglis asked that grace, mercy, and peace, from the Lord Jesus Christ, and the communion and fellowship of the Holy Ghost might be and abide with those present forever, after which the vast body broke up slowly, filling the adjacent streets with a tide that poured through them unceasingly for hours afterward.

MR. MOODY THIS WEEK.

Mr. Moody announced that there would be preaching in Dr. Talmadge's Tabernacle every morning this week, except Saturday, at 8:30 o'clock, and every evening at 7 o'clock, in the Rink.

A series of religious meetings are to be held in the Clermont Avenue Universalist Church, Brooklyn, beginning to-night at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Brooks, of Philadelphia, and Revs. J. M. Pullman, R. H. Pullman, and H. R. Nye, will make brief addresses. The Pastor, Rev. H. R. Nye, preached an introductory sermon last night, his theme being "Preparation for Christ."

A PICKPOCKET'S HARVEST.

John Marsh, a notorious pickpocket, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Corwin, in the old Dutch Church opposite the Rink, in Brooklyn, in the act of picking the pocket of an old lady. From the number and variety of the articles found upon the person of the man when his pockets were searched, it was evident that he had plied his vocation extensively in the crowd that had gathered to listen to the preaching and singing of Messrs. Moody and Sankey. Among the articles were a pair of scissors, a pair of gold spectacles, a pair of gold eye-glasses, a gold pencil, four Camden and Philadelphia steam-boat tickets, and $276 90 in money. There were also a number of gold and ivory shirt-studs and a pocket-handkerchief marked "Anna Manning." The thief was locked up.

FALL REGATTA OF THE NASSAU CLUB.

The annual Fall regatta of the Nassau Boat Club took place on Saturday afternoon on the Harlem River. There were two events—a pair-oared race and a scullers' race. There were four entries in each race. Those entered in the first race were A. B. Frost and George Floyd Jones; W. Robinson and W. Lindelhon; Frank Bacon and John Guneter; J. B. Reynolds and Lindsey Watson. The contestants in the scullers' race were Arthur B. Frost, Frank Roberts, E. J. Forte, and J. J. Wilson. The course in each race was from Gates' dock to Florence's dock, straight away, a distance of one mile. Frost and Jones won the first race by five lengths, Reynolds and Watson second, and Robinson and Lindelhon last. Forte won the scullers' race by nearly ten lengths, Roberts second, Wilson third, and Frost withdrawn. The prizes were elegant silver cups, besides medals for the winners.

FUNERAL OF LEVI B. FARON.

The funeral of the late Levi B. Faron was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Redeemer, corner of Fourth avenue and Pacific street, Brooklyn, and was largely attended by prominent citizens of Brooklyn and friends of the deceased. The floral offerings were very profuse and beautiful. Mr. Faron was a lawyer by profession and a member of the Brooklyn Board of Education. The pall-bearers were Mayor Hunter, Judge Moone, E. J. Whitlock, L. V. D. Hardenburg, William P. Libby, Thomas A. More, Samuel Gelston, A. H. Wakely, and Mr. Waldron. Rev. Dr. Leonard officiated. The remains were buried in Green-Wood.

LAW REPORTS.

PETER B. SWEENY'S ANSWER.

THE CITY'S SUIT TO RECOVER SIX MILLIONS—HE DENIES ALL CONNECTION WITH THE FRAUDULENT CLAIMS.

Peter B. Sweeny on Saturday filed his answer in the suit instituted against him in the name of the people for the recovery of $6,198,957 85. It is a long document, the substance of which is as follows: The defendant, Peter B. Sweeny, admits that he was President of the Board of Public Works at the time specified, but denies having at any time combined, conspired, or agreed with James Watson or any other person to procure false or fraudulent claims to be paid, with intent to defraud the County of New-York or the tax-payers thereof. He denies having any knowledge whether pretended claims were falsely presented and audited as stated in the complaint. He admits that certain claims were audited, but cannot say whether they are correctly specified in the schedule (A) appended to the complaint. He denies knowing or hearing that they were fraudulent. He admits that on the certificates of the audit of such claims the Controller issued bonds and procured money, but denies all knowledge of the amount. He admits that the money was lodged in the National Broadway Bank, but denies all knowledge of its withdrawal. He also says that he does not know that the further allegations of said complaint are true, except as to the forms of warrants appended, and excepting further that he admits the meeting of the Board of Auditors alleged, and that James Watson was County Auditor, but denies that he (defendant) knew that the claims audited were false or fraudulent. Further he denies that he obtained the said warrants, or procured their payment, or converted to his own use, or to the use of any other person the said sum of $6,198,957 85, or any part thereof. He admits that no part of the money has been recovered from him, and denies each and every other allegation in the first cause of action.

As to the second cause of action, he denies that he conspired with any person to procure false or fraudulent claims to be paid in any manner. He admits that no part of the moneys mentioned in the second cause have been recovered. He denies all knowledge as to the alleged fraudulent payment of six pretended claims, amounting to $933,640 44, or any other sum. And he denies all knowledge whether pretended claims were made out after the passage of the act of April 26, 1870. He denies knowing that Controller Connolly paid such claims without examination or knowing them to be fraudulent. He denies knowing whether they were paid, and denies knowing whether they were fraudulent. And he denies having fraudulently obtained or converted to his own use the said $933,640 44, or any other sum belonging to said corporation. And he denies that the said six warrants were paid to him. And as a further defense, defendant sets up that the plaintiff has heretofore claimed that James H. Ingersoll, John McBride Davidson, John H. Keyser, and James Watson, and others to the defendant unknown, were parties to the alleged frauds, and participants in the moneys fraudulently obtained. And that they, or some of them, have returned large sums of money, in amounts unknown to defendant. He further sets up that the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the City of New-York are alone entitled to sue for the causes set forth, and that there is a defect of parties, wherefore defendant prays that the plaintiff's complaint be dismissed with costs. Mr. McKeon, Sweeny's attorney, signs and swears to the answer on account of the absence of defendant in France.

Mr. Peckham, on receipt of the answer, gave notice to defendant's attorney that he should press for trial at Supreme Court, Circuit, on the first Monday of next month.

THE MONTANA DISABLED.

PARTICULARS OF A NARROW ESCAPE FROM A TERRIBLE DISASTER.

The following private letter to a gentleman in this City gives a full account of the recent disaster to the Montana. The Dakota, to which the passengers of the Montana were transferred, is now nearly due, and upon their arrival fuller particulars will be accessible.

STEAMER MONTANA, LIVERPOOL, Oct. 7, 1875.

DEAR SIR: Before this reaches you a telegram from us will have informed you on what vessel we expect to sail. You have probably learned from the papers that the Montana, on which we sailed, was obliged to put back for repairs. I only write to inform you why these repairs became necessary. On the day of our departure three other steamers sailed, and there seemed to be an understanding, tacit or otherwise, that the Montana was to beat the others. We had not gone more than 200 miles from Queenstown before we were met by a terrible gale which struck us full in the face. Under the circumstances one would have thought that the Captain would have abated the speed he was making, but on he rushed at the rate of thirteen and a half knots an hour. At times the prow of the vessel buried itself in the sea, and a mountain of water would crash down upon the forward deck, making a reverberation so terrible as almost to cause us to spring from our seats. For one whole night we were kept awake by these constant alarms. The forward deck by these continuous blows was at last forced in, and the vessel was otherwise so tried that she began to ship sea to an alarming extent. The dining saloon and some of the state-rooms on the water side were covered with several inches of water. The hold was filled, the compartment above the hold was filled, and the compartment immediately below our state-rooms was one-third filled. The pumps were kept going, but their operation was retarded by floating feathers that had escaped from the baggage of the steerage passengers and which kept choking the pipes. We really began to think that we were going to the bottom. The vessel shivered and trembled at every shock as if she were a human being.

Still the Captain seemed determined to rush on. The crew, however, could not see the reason or wisdom of continuing their course in the vessel as she then was. They consequently refused to work any longer unless the Captain would return to Liverpool immediately. The Captain was certainly ignorant of our true position, or was seized with a mad ambition to beat the other vessels. The new dilemma of a mutiny on board now stared us in the face. The crew were firm and the Captain was firm. The latter threatened to starve the former into submission. He said he could afford to let the fires go down and have the vessel drift. We lay for half a day, at least, in the trough of the sea, awaiting a concession on one side or the other. Night came on and still we were carried slowly eastward by the gale. At last the passengers interposed. We signed a petition to the Captain to return. After an hour's deliberation he yielded, and we were soon on our way back to Queenstown. We reached the harbor in safety, and soon proceeded to Liverpool, where we are now lying. We are now beginning to realize more fully the danger we were in. The Captain confesses that he is thankful that we escaped with our lives. As we lie now, the pumps must be kept going to keep the water down. There seems to be a fracture somewhere that cannot be discovered. The iron plates that cover the forward deck were broken in as if they had been struck by a thunderbolt. If the fracture had occurred further back, (which could just as easily have happened,) there would have been no one of us left to return to you again. The abatement of the storm as we lay in the trough of the sea trying to prop up the broken plates, was a mercy in the hour of our need. We all escaped with our lives, but all the baggage that was taken below was drenched and smashed and churned and twisted beyond all recognition. Our valises we had in our state-rooms, and they were saved. The articles of jewelry that can be found are now being fished out and culled from the débris to be recognized by their owners. Ladies never think of looking for silks or velvets when they once get a glimpse into the hold. Clothing is torn into shreds and soiled so as to be fit only for the paper-mill. So far, we have recognized only two knives and an opera-glass (in fragments) of our own among the rescued articles. We have all made out lists of of the articles lost and submitted them to the company. What they propose to do in the way of indemnity is not yet stated. For the present, we are a troublesome elephant on the hands of the company. They are keeping us in the river so that we may be out of mischief. There is no chance of getting a passage home before the 13th, either by this line or any other. The latter are all full. The Dakota, of this line, will probably be the one on which we shall sail. If the Montana had been taken through the storm at a proper rate of speed, I don't think the accident would have happened. The company, after an investigation, conclude that the vessel must have struck something in the water. We passengers believe that she struck something! We think that she struck the sea too hard!

SINGULAR ELOPEMENT.

On Saturday night Officer Malby, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, accompanied by an elderly gentleman, entered the Star Hotel, corner of Chambers and West streets. After glancing over the register they went up stairs, where the officer arrested a man and a young woman, occupying a room together, and took them to the Twenty-seventh Precinct Station-house. There the man gave his name as Henry Keenan, of No. 201 Chambers street, a bar-tender. He was locked up on a charge of abduction, preferred by the gentleman who had procured his arrest, and who, it appears, is the uncle of the girl. Keenan was taken before Justice Otterbourg, at the Tombs Police Court, yesterday morning, when it having been shown that the young woman was of age, and had voluntarily gone off with him, he was discharged. The girl, however, whose name was not given, returned with her uncle to his residence.

AN ODD-FELLOW'S MONUMENT.

The ceremony of unveiling the monument of Edwin M. Sewnton, Past Grand Master of Odd-fellows of the State of New-York, and Past Grand Representative to the Grand Lodge of the United States, took place in Green-Wood Cemetery yesterday afternoon in presence of a large number of spectators. About two hundred members of the order participated, representing Fotr Greene, Eagle, Prospect, Brooklyn, Gowanus, and Arbor-vitæ Lodges of Odd-fellows. Rev. A. Stewart Walsh, of Purity Lodge, delivered a eulogy on the deceased. The monument is a plain granite obelisk about eight feet high, and stands near the main entrance, corner of Landscape and Lawn avenues. Mr. Swanton was a member of Atlantic Lodge, No. 56, I. O. of O. F., and sixty-eight years of age. He died in March last.

THE WOUNDED POLITICIAN RECOVERING.

Thomas Ferris, the Tammany politician who was shot on Friday night, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, by Edward Haggerty, still remains at the hotel in charge of Prof. James R. Wood and Dr. Ruppaner. He is improving rapidly, and his condition last night was such as to lead the attending surgeon to believe that all danger of death from the wound had disappeared. The symptoms are favorable for the speedy recovery of the wounded man, and it is expected that no permanent injury will result from the shooting. Haggerty is still at large, although it is believed that as soon as he becomes acquainted with the fact that his antagonist is out of danger he will return to this City and surrender himself to the authorities. His friends claim that Haggerty acted purely in self-defense, and that this fact can be established when the case comes to be investigated before an impartial tribunal.

THE SECOND AVENUE MURDER.

ANTE-MORTEM DEPOSITION OF THE VICTIM—THE ASSASSIN STILL AT LIBERTY—ANOTHER MAN STABBED BY A COMPANION OF HANDY.

Coronor Croker yesterday took the ante-mortem statement of Felix McBride, the bar-tender who was stabbed and fatally wounded by Thomas Handy, during an altercation in the liquor store of Owen McBride, corner of Fortieth street and Second avenue, on Saturday evening, as published in yesterday's TIMES. The wounded man was faint from shock and loss of blood, but was perfectly rational and made his statement in a collected manner, prefacing it by the assertion that he did not think he was going to die from the injury. The deposition is as follows:

"I was behind the bar in the saloon at the corner of Fortieth street and Second avenue (which is kept by my brother) on Saturday afternoon; I reside in the same house; Handy came in and asked for drinks; I told him that his credit was good for nothing; John Whalen and several others were in the store at the time; some words ensued, during which Handy said he would 'stick' me; he had used the same words about a month ago, saying that he could stick any Irishman in the country; I told him to go out into the street, as I had had enough of his talk; I followed him out, and when I turned to re-enter the store Handy picked up a brick-bat and threw it at me; it struck me on the back between the shoulders; I picked the brickbat up and looked for a policeman to give him into custody: I held the brick in my hand and returned to the bar; in a few moments Handy returned and said he was ready to 'fix' me; I thought he had a pistol and I went up close to him; then he drew a knife which he had concealed and plunged it into me; I felt the blow and staggered into the back room; Handy then ran away and I have not seen him since."

The attending surgeon at Bellevue Hospital stated that the blade of the knife had entered the abdominal cavity and had in all probability pierced the intestines, in which case the wound must necessarily prove fatal. Handy, the assassin, who fled immediately after having stabbed McBride, is still at liberty, despite the efforts of the police to secure him. He is a car-driver by occupation, but has not been at work for several weeks. He is well known to the Police of the Twenty-first Precinct, and there ought to be no difficulty experienced in capturing him.

The affray between Handy and McBride resulted in the stabbing of another man named Julius Fleishman, conductor of Car No. 53 of the Second Avenue Line. It appears that the car was proceeding up-town, and passed the corner of Fortieth street and Second avenue at the time that McBride was stabbed. Handy and a companion named John Whalen jumped on the car, but Fleishman, becoming alarmed at their hostile demonstrations, ordered them off the car. Handy jumped off and fled, but Whalen assaulted the conductor, and stabbed him twice with a pocket knife, once in the neck and once in the hand, inflicting severe wounds. He then jumped from the car and fled. Fleishman remained on his car until it reached the depot at Sixty-fifth street, when he reported the assault at the Nineteenth Precinct Station-house in East Fifty-ninth street. Information was subsequently sent to Capt. Murphy, commanding the Twenty-first Precint Police, in whose district the fracas occurred. Whalen was arrested yesterday morning by an officer of the Twenty-first Precinct Police, and was duly identified by Fleishman as the man who had made the assault upon him. He was locked up at the East Thirty-fifth street Police Station, and will be taken to the Fifty-seventh Street Police Court to-day.

DEATH OF CARRUTH.

FATAL TERMINATION OF THE VINELAND SHOOTING—REARREST OF LANDIS, THE MURDERER OF CARRUTH.

Mr. Carruth, formerly editor of the Vineland Independent, who was shot in his office by C. R. Landis on Friday, March 19, died at his residence in Vineland at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. An article appeared in Carruth's paper on March 18, which, although impersonal, was believed by Mr. Landis to be a slur upon him, and taking the slip he went to the Independent office. Mr. Carruth was not in, and a boy was sent after him. Mr. Landis awaited his arrival, and when Carruth came the former showed him the slip and asked if he wrote it. Carruth acknowledged that he did, whereupon Mr. Landis drew a revolver and shot him in the back of the head while he was trying to escape. Mr. Landis was found leaning over the prostrate man, and was heard to say: "I did it, I did it, I did it, for the cause of God and humanity." He was immediately arrested and taken to the Bridgeton jail, and after a few weeks' imprisonment was admitted to bail in the sum of $50,000. Carruth laid in a stupor in his office for some days, unable to move or see, but could distinctly hear after the first shock. He eventually recovered so that he was able to visit his relatives in Clinton, Oneida County, N. Y., where he recovered so rapidly that he was soon able to walk long distances. Mr. Landis, with his counsel, visited him there and offered to settle with him for $5,000 in cash and 380 acres of land. The offer was refused, and Carruth soon returned home. Since then he has been troubled very much in regard to his pecuniary affairs and the probable condition of his family in case of his death. He thought seriously at one time of instituting a civil suit for damages, and mutual friends have ever since been hard at work endeavoring to bring about a settlement. They had so far succeeded that, a few days ago, the sum of $12,500 in cash and securities had been agreed upon, and the papers only awaited the signature of Landis, who insisted that Carruth should leave the State before the settlement was perfected. Mr. Carruth began to fail upon his return home, and was unable to attend to business, his mind being constantly exercised in regard to a settlement. Up to within a week or ten days ago it was thought that if his mind was relieved of that burden he would yet recover. At daybreak he would anxiously inquire, "Can you keep me until night, so we can fix those papers?" and at night he would say, "You must keep me till morning, so we can settle that matter." His relatives did not let him know that the settlement could only be made contingent upon his removal from the State, and he was evidently lower than his friends thought, although he has been confined to his bed for some days past. On Saturday afternoon he sank into a stupor, from which he was released by death at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Landis has been rearrested and taken to the County Jail at Bridgeton. As Mr. Carruth has died within a year from the time he was shot, Mr. Landis is liable to be indicted according to the laws of this State for murder in the first degree. His trial will undoubtedly come off at the January term. Mr. Carruth's body will be brought to New-Jersey on Tuesday for interment.

MONDAY, Oct. 25—A. M.

The weekly return of the Associated Banks, issued from the Clearing-house on Saturday, indicates that the flow of currency to the South and West is abating. The decrease in legal tenders is $1,792,500, an amount much smaller than generally expected. The work performed by the currency which the New-York City banks have sent to the South and West within the past few weeks is plainly indicated in the crop movements. The receipts of Cotton at the Southern seaports for the week reached the large amount of 147,345 bales, which makes the total receipts since Sept. 1, 570,582 bales, against 500,701 for the same time last year. This is a healthy sign, and shows that the great staple of the South is being rapidly marketed. The exports of cotton from all the ports for the week were not as large as those for the same week last year, but the total since Sept. 1 is in excess of last year, and advices from the South report very large amounts on shipboard not yet cleared, which will swell the total exports during the next few weeks. So much for cotton. Turning to the West, we find that the receipts of flour and grain at the lake and river ports for the week ending Oct. 16—the last week officially reported—were in excess of the previous week, and with the exception of flour, the receipts, particularly of wheat, were in excess of the corresponding week of last year. These facts set at rest the stories recently circulated on the Stock Exchange that the crops were not moving. It is this crop movement of the cotton of the South and the grain of the West that caused a revival of business in those sections where trade has lately shown so much activity. It is now generally conceded that Europe will need our surplus products, and in the main at fair prices. The export movements will probably be large during the Winter months, affording active employment to the railways after the close of navigation, now not far distant. The banks have recently withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury about $10,000,000 legal tenders, and reduced the amount of certificates of deposit with the Treasury to about $35,000,000. The great assistance rendered by the banks to the interior, in the shape of legal tenders sent South and West, has been accomplished with very little effect on the money market, and without putting up rates on call to any great extent. There is now every reason to believe that the crops will be moved and the Fall trade carried to a successful termination without any stringency in the money market. The banks have made a large reduction in loans, the decrease for the week being $3,945,000. There has also been a large reduction in deposits, the falling off in this item being $5,227,100. The specie average is increased $17,400, and the circulation $3,400. The decrease in the reserve of $468,325 is a much smaller loss than was generally looked for in financial circles. The banks after making this loss have an excess of reserve above legal requirements to the amount of $5,241,575.

The following shows the condition of the banks on Saturday last, compared with the previous statement and with the statement for the corresponding week last year:

| | Oct. 16. | Oct. 23. | Oct. 24, 1874. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Loans | $284,529,700 | $280,584,700 | $281,873,700 |
| Specie | 6,389,200 | 6,406,600 | 13,585,200 |
| Legal tenders | 56,495,400 | 54,702,900 | 58,830,800 |
| Deposits | 228,698,800 | 223,471,700 | 226,304,800 |
| Circulation | 17,812,800 | 17,816,200 | 25,031,500 |

And the following the relations between the total reserve and the total liabilities of the banks:

| | | | | |

| Excess of reserve above legal requirements | 5,709,900 | 5,241,575 | Dec. | $468,325 |

The large flow of currency from this centre to facilitate the movement of the crops from the West and South, and the revival of activity at the Stock Exchange, tended to impart a firmer tone to the money market. The advance in the rates in commercial paper induced a livelier demand on the part of the merchants at bank for discounts. Prime names were quoted at 6 to 7 ₽ cent., with little doing below the latter rate. Call loans at the banks were quoted at 4@5 ₽ cent., but at the Stock Exchange the business was chiefly at 3@3½ ₽ cent., although for a short time on Saturday transactions were made at 5 ₽ cent.

The foreign advices were chiefly noticeable for the continued losses of bullion by the Bank of England and the firmer rates for discounts. On Thursday the Directors of the bank advanced the rate from 3½ to 4 ₽ cent., the bank having lost £945,237 sterling during the week. Since Thursday there has been a further net loss of bullion reported of £90,000. The London market for securities was quiet, and the changes slight, except in Erie, which declined to 12¼ on the report of Mr. Morris to the English public. Afterward the price recovered to 16¼. The sterling exchange market was heavy and depressed, and the lowest quotations of the season were reached. Prime bankers' 60-day bills on London sold as low as $4 75@$4 75½, and demand at $4 79½@$4 80, the pressure of cotton bills on the market and the high rates for gold loans causing the decline. The nominal rates, after being lowered from $4 78½ to $4 76½ for long and from $4 83 to $4 81 for demand sterling, were advanced on Friday to $4 79 and $4 83½, and the final asking rates of the bankers were still higher, being $4 79½ and $4 84. This sharp recovery naturally restricted business, and on Saturday the transactions were unusually small. The gold speculation was weak and lower, the decline for the week having been over 2 ₱ cent.—from 116⅞ to 114⅝. The weakness of the market resulted from a combination of circumstances, such as the liberal receipts of gold from California and the arrivals from London, the announcement of the anticipation without rebate on Monday next of the November interest by the Treasury, the sale of $1,000,000 Government gold on Thursday, and the expiration of a call for nearly $15,000,000 5-20s next week. All these influences combined to weaken the control of the clique over the market, and, indeed, led to the opinion on the part of many that the speculators had actually released their hold on the same. The sharp decline in the price, however, and the fact that the supply of gold in the banks is still considerably less than before the late troubles in San Francisco should make borrowers of gold wary about crediting the stories set afloat in regard to the clique. Early in the week borrowers paid as high as ⅛ ₱ cent. per diem for the use of cash gold; but later there were offerings down to 3 ₱ cent. per annum, and flat. The final sales of gold were at 114¾.

Government bonds declined ¼ to 1 ₱ cent., in sympathy with gold, the only exception being Currency 6s, which were firm at 123¾@124. The decline in prices did not induce any large offerings, and it may be said that many financial institutions and individual capitalists stand ready to take advantage of any fall in prices. Railroad bonds were lower, with a decline in some of the gold-bearing issues. The Pacific mortgages were the most active, and closed firm. State bonds remained quiet. The principal business was in District of Columbia 3-65s and Tennessees, the former being firm and higher, and the latter weak.

At the Stock Exchange the opening of the week witnessed an entire and radical change in the temper of speculation. To the depression which had formed the most conspicuous feature of the market for months previous succeeded a feeling of buoyancy and confidence which was reflected in an advance in the general list ranging from 1 to 7 per cent. The stocks most conspicuous in the improvement were Pacific Mail, Lake Shore, Western Union, New-Jersey Central, North-western, Michigan Central, and St. Paul. Pacific Mail, on large transactians, rose from 36⅜ to 42, a gain of 5⅝ per cent., and closed at 40¾@40⅞. The advance in this stock was caused by a heavy purchasing movement, induced by the sale, on advantageous terms, of the company's side-wheel wooden steamers for the sum of $800,000, and reports that the company is doing a very large and remunerative business and rapidly freeing itself from debt. Lake Shore, on large transactions, advanced from 54¼ to 61⅜, and at the close reacted to 59⅞@60. Western Union advanced to 77½, North-western to 37¾ and the Preferred to 52, Union Pacific to 69¼, St. Paul to 35½ and the Preferred to 63½, New-Jersey Central to 106, and Ohio and Mississippi to 17⅞. On Saturday realizations caused a reaction, which was, however, only partial, and at the close the market exhibited strength and firmness. Missouri Pacific continues on its downward course, and sold as low as 7½, afterward recovering to 9. During the week some minor operators on the "bear" side were forced to suspend.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 23.—Wool—During the week the sales of domestic Wool have been quite large, amounting in the aggregate to 1,712,000 lb., mostly Ohio, Pennsylvania, and California, at full market rates; there is a firmer tone for fine Fleeces, for which rather better prices have been realized than prevailed a few weeks ago, and manufacturers are now more disposed to stock up; prices of X and XX Ohio and Pennsylvania Fleeces still range from 45c.@46c., although very choice lots have been placed at 46½c.@47½c., but good average lots of XX cannot be quoted over 46c. In Michigan and Wisconsin Fleeces very little has been done, with sales of 63,000 lb. of X at 42c.@43½c. Combing and Delaine Fleeces are still sought after, but prices have scarcely varied for some weeks past: choice lots of Combing have been sold as high as 60c.@62c., and fine Delaine selections at 47c.@52c. as to quality. The stock of California has been materially reduced by the large transactions for some weeks past. In Pulled Wool no change is noted; the sales have been at 35c.@54c. for Super and X.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

At the Exchange on Saturday, Oct. 23, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, J. P. Ledwith, Esq., Referee, Richard V. Harnett sold the two-story frame cottage, with lot 25 by 100, No. 322 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, south side, 275 feet east of Second avenue, for $2,850 to Timothy Donovan. The legal sale by D. M. Seaman of a house and lot on East Forty fourth street, east of Madison avenue, was adjourned to to-morrow, the 26th inst., and the legal sale by V. K. Stevenson, Jr., of a house and lot on East Fifty-eighth street, east of Third avenue, to Nov. 6.

The business of the past week has been the most important transacted since the Fall market opened, and a large amount of property has changed hands. The prices realized have been very low, as a rule, and a great depreciation on rates of three years ago has been shown. The feature of the week's transactions was the sale, on Wednesday, Oct. 20, of lots owned by Griffith Rowe, at which auction forty-seven lots were knocked down for $608,750 in the aggregate. We have made diligent inquiry since this date as to how many lots were really disposed of, but have been unable thus far to obtain definite information. The auctioneers officiating had not the exclusive charge of the sale, and they were on Saturday as yet without knowledge as to the facts in the matter. It is pretty well understood, however, that the lots on Fifth avenue were not sold, but that other property was disposed of to bona fide buyers to the value of about $300,000. In connection with the auction, when its importance and the class of property offered are considered, we may remark that it was poorly advertised, and very badly managed. The sale by E. H. Ludlow & Co., on Wednesday, of the Blackington house on Fifth avenue, south-west corner of Forty-fourth street, for $115,000, is worthy notice.

The total value of City real estate sold at the Exchange for the week ending with Saturday, Oct. 23, amounts to (calling the Rowe sale $300,000) $799,400, as against $152,290, the figures for the previous week.

The proposed sale to-day by Messrs. Muller & Son of the Ferris estate should attract the attention of capitalists, as the lots offered are to be sold without reserve to the highest bidder.

V. K. Stevenson, Jr., No. 11 Pine street, reports having sold, at private contract, the four-story and basement brown-stone-front house, 28.10 by 75, with lot 95 feet deep, No. 182 Madison avenue, near Thirty-fourth street, for $66,000, to Mrs. Ellen L. Davidson, of Bergen Point, N. J.

Lamson & Son, No. 170 Broadway, also report having negotiated for Mr. L. J. Phillips the private sale of the four-story and basement brown-stone-front house, with lot 25 by one-half block, No. 16 West Fifty-second street, for $55,000, the purchaser being Mr. F. P. Woodbury.

A NEW POEM BY MR. ROBERT BROWNING.

We beg to announce that we have made arrangements with Mr. Robert Browning for the publication of a new poem from his pen. The date of its appearance in the columns of the Sunday edition of THE TIMES will shortly be announced.

We are assured that the State Committee has in its possession information which leaves no doubt whatever as to the success of the Republican State ticket. A very thorough canvass of the State has been made, and it is found that everywhere we have made enormous gains during the last fortnight, and that the mockery of Democratic "reform" is becoming more and more obvious to the people. The fact that the loud-vaunted Canal Commission is merely used as a stepping-stone to place and power disgusts all sections of the community. We saw too much of that kind of work in connection with the Committee of Seventy. A man, it now appears, is to be put on the Canal Commission just long enough to sound his trumpet as a Reformer, and then he is to be run for office. In BIGELOW'S case, a double fraud has been practiced, for Gov. TILDEN placed him on the commission as a Republican, while he knew all the time that he was a Democrat. What becomes of his boast that he had appointed a "non-partisan" commission? What excuse can be assigned for so dishonorable a trick? Now that the public see through the deception, we are not surprised to learn that the entire aspect of the canvass in the State has been changed, and that the Republican Committee are able to promise with confidence a sweeping victory for FREDERICK SEWARD and his associates.

In this City the prospect is also most encouraging. The people seem to be thoroughly tired of the "one-man rule," and KELLY'S insolent dictation has provoked general indignation. Good judges estimate that Recorder HACKETT will be re-elected by at least 30,000 majority—large bets are being made on that result—and the majority for District Attorney PHELPS is not likely to fall far below the number. Mr. VAN SCHAICK will certainly be elected Surrogate, and the rest of the candidates on the ticket seem to be beyond reach of danger. The Anti-Tammany Democrats increase in strength every day, and the Germans are with us in a solid body. KELLY'S supporters are dropping away from him as fast as the leaves are falling from the trees. Every hour almost witnesses a great defection. It only needs our readers who voted for the downfall of Tammany in '71 to record their votes once more in favor of government for and by the people, and against a low and galling despotism. It is not too much to say that the readers of THE TIMES can carry the election this year, and we earnestly hope that they will not fail to do it. Vote the entire ticket headed by HACKETT and PHELPS—there is not an incompetent or untrustworthy man upon it.

It is refreshing to know that Mr. PETER B. SWEENY, in his exile, is not troubled by recollections of what occurred when he honored this City with his services. He has informed his lawyer, and his lawyer has sworn, that he, SWEENY, has no knowledge whether any fraudulent claims were presented to the Board of Audit; he never heard that any which were audited were fraudulent; he has no knowledge of what became of the famous deposits in the Broadway Bank; and he does not know whether CONNOLLY paid fraudulent claims, or whether any were paid. Nothing conduces to peace of mind in foreign travel so much as a clear conscience and a mind capable of dismissing all annoying details of business left behind one. These Mr. SWEENY seems to possess. In reading his answer in the City suit against him for the plunder of the Ring, one might think that he was one of those "good New-Yorkers" who expect to go to Paris when they die, and who had but arrived there a little ahead of time.

If the choice of a Judge for the Third Judicial District could be left to the Bar, or if it were to be made by the Executive, who could be held to a strict responsibility for his action, we have no doubt that Judge CADMAN rather than Judge OSBORN would be placed on the bench. The voters of the district ought to understand this, and to act in the election without reference to mere partisan preferences. Judge CADMAN has been four years the County Judge of Columbia County, a position of more than usual importance, which he has filled with decided ability. His character is above reproach, and, what is equally important in the case of the judiciary, it is known to be so. He possesses the unqualified confidence of those best able to form a correct opinion of his fitness for the bench. It would be a happy thing for the district—and for the State—if he could be chosen to the Supreme Court.

A special election is to be held in Oregon to-day, to fill the vacancy in Congress caused by the death of GEORGE A. LA DOW, Democrat. Mr. LA DOW was elected last Fall, he receiving 9,642 votes, to 9,340 cast for the Republican candidate, and 6,350 for an Independent. To-day there are three candidates in the field—HENRY WARREN, Republican; LAFAYETTE LANE, Democrat, and GEORGE N. WHITNEY, Independent. With the Republican vote again divided, there is little ground for hope of a more favorable result than was gained last Fall.

Mr. HORACE WHITE, on the 8th of October, wrote a letter from Paris to the London News, in which he gave a great deal of history and some prophecy concerning American finances, with special reference to the Ohio canvass. His prophecy is not worth attention. His history was in the main correct enough, though colored, apparently for rhetorical purposes, more highly than the bare facts justify. Some of his details, however, are singularly out of the way. He states the reduction in the amount of legal-tender notes effected under Mr. McCULLOCH to have been $18,000,000. It was really $44,000,000. He says that "during the height of the crisis (of 1873) the Secretary of the Treasury, with the sanction of the President, reissued the eighteen millions retired some years previously by Mr. McCULLOCH." In fact, the issue was made quite gradually, after the "height of the crisis" was past, and with no reference to the panic, but on the ground that the Government had no other means of meeting its current expenditures. The amount of the reissue was, moreover, $26,000,000, and not $18,000,000. Mr. WHITE also states that the currency has "contracted itself under the operation of the bill" of 1874; but the contraction has been principally in virtue of the bill of 1875, which Mr. WHITE does not mention at all. As this bill promised redemption in 1879, and was the objective point of the Ohio campaign, the omission of it in a letter explaining that campaign is unfortunate.

The local contest in Brooklyn grows very warm. The part taken by such Democrats as Gen. SLOCUM and ex-Mayor HUNTER against the McLaughlin Ring makes the success of the reform ticket almost certain. When these gentlemen oppose the Ring the public understands that it is not for hope of political advancement or from partisan zeal, but because they know that the Ring is greatly injuring the city. Mr. SCHROEDER'S prospects for election are exceedingly good, and probably nothing but fraud—which we hope will be rendered difficult—can defeat him.

NEW-YORK AND ITS RULERS.

The view of our local politics which has been put forward by the Nation may probably be held by many other persons besides the editor of that journal, but it is not the less a view which is fatal to any progress or reform. It comes to this—that it is nonsense to aim at getting a good Government in New-York; that we must always be ruled by a "Boss," and that it is not a bad thing in itself that we should be so ruled; that if the citizen attends primary meetings, as he is often told to do, he will simply become a man like JOHN KELLY—that is, "a gentleman of leisure, attending to his political duties"—and that the enthusiasm required for "rising against bosses" cannot so easily be got up by the people as it is by newspapers.

With regard to this last point, the writer makes a wrong assumption. It is by no means easy, as we can vouch, to feel the same "enthusiasm" in fighting now against Tammany as between 1869 and 1871. For then we believed—foolishly, as we were often assured—that the standard of public feeling and morality was sufficiently high to support an attack on such an organization as that of TWEED and SWEENY, and that if its offenses were fully exposed, the people would put an end to it. We were often told, even then, that this was a delusion, and sometimes events have strongly tended to confirm the statement. There has been a great deal of outcry about "corruption at Washington," under cover of which corruption in an infinite variety of forms has been carried on by the Democrats in New-York. The very head and front of the Democratic organization, as it existed under TWEED and SWEENY, is now the Governor of the State, and is trying to work his way to the Presidency on the cry of "Reform." Tammany is precisely what it was in the days of TWEED, with a few respectable figure-heads scattered about it, by way of deference to the public opoinion of '71; but it is the same in its composition and methods of working. It is the expression of the opinions of one man, and that a man of questionable character, and with no training whatever for public life. A convention is called to decide upon candidates at election time, but the one man—generally known by his political supporters as the "Boss," that not being a nickname of our invention—walks in and directs the delegates to nominate a certain set of candidates whom he mentions. At the recent Tammany Convention, many of the delegates wished to nominate Mr. HACKETT as Recorder. But the Boss would not listen to them for a moment, and in no instance was his cut-and-dried list of candidates changed or modified.

It is this system which the people of New-York have now an opportunity of striking down. Their last victory over Tammany destroyed its leaders, but left the organization intact. A victory over it this year would destroy the organization itself. It could not recover from a second blow. It is to the interest of Democrats themselves that it should be annihilated, for at present it keeps those of them who are respectable and able men out of public life, or in subordinate positions. A man of education and good training stands no chance whatever of holding the place which TWEED and JOHN KELLY have successively filled. Men like Mr. GERARD, or Mr. RANDOLPH ROBINSON, do not belong to the class out of which Bosses are made. They may be made "Sachems" now and then, from a sort of ironical deference to their class, but they are without power or influence. If Tammany were once broken up, they would at least have the opportunity of forming a political organization on a different basis. Probably the "boys" who follow the Tammany "gonfalon" would still have to be led by such leaders as KELLY. But KELLY and his class could be relegated to the second place, and kept there.

Perhaps we shall be told that this also is an idle dream, and that it is the destiny of New-York to sink lower and lower in the scale of government, and to fall more and more completely under the sway of the base and the unworthy. For our own parts, we should require no further proof of the correctness of this theory than the success of the KELLY ticket at the forthcoming elections. If the people vote for that, or abstain from voting against it—which would come to the same thing—it would be idle for newspapers to go on attacking Tammany. We placed our property in jeopardy for two or three years in one such attack, and subjected ourselves to all kinds of personal slanders and abuse, with little or no support from the public until toward the end of the contest. The leaders of Tammany tried to stop the sale of our paper on railways and at news stands, and the managers of the paper were accused of every crime known to mankind. Sometimes they were arrested by TWEED'S Sheriffs; sometimes Grand Juries were asked to indict them. If the Nation supposes that this sort of life is pleasant, or that we are disposed to go through it again unnecessarily, it is much deceived. The most hardened miscreant in Sing Sing would be ashamed to commit one-half of the offenses which the Tilden and Kelly organs are daily instructed to charge against us. The work to be done in attacking a wealthy and unscrupulous organization like that of Tammany, is, in truth, of an infinitely repulsive kind, and we do not suppose that any man or men could go on doing it for many years together with the same buoyancy and hopefulness as at first. We can answer for ourselves that we go to it now with very different feelings from those which we had about it five years ago. Yet, once more, at least, it is our duty to face it. But we acknowledge candidly that if the people deliberately prefer the rule of "Tammany Bosses" to any other, it is absurd for us to throw ourselves against their wishes. The election of the KELLY ticket this year would be regarded on all hands as the definite acceptance of Tammany and the new Boss, and the final defeat of such reforms as those which were carried out in 1871. The people know what JOHN KELLY is; they see that he may possibly be a man fit to be placed over a gang of laborers on a road, but in no way fit to be at the head of an organization which governs this City. If, knowing this, they vote for him to-morrow week, it is not likely that many newspapers will be found ready to step in between the "Boss" and those who will be at once his creators and his victims.

MONEY AND CONFIDENCE.

One of the most important points in the argument against inflation, and one, we think, that is conclusively demonstrated, is the disastrous effect which that scheme, if carried out, would produce upon business confidence. In connection with this point, there is a topic that has, perhaps, received less attention than it deserves. We refer to the manner in which well-founded business confidence is, in many cases, a substitute for money, and often a substitute that affords facilities for business which the money itself would not supply. To give an example of what we mean: if, for all the articles of traffic that pass from here to Chicago, the full value in money had to be brought or sent to New-York, and a similar process gone through with in regard to all that are carried in the opposite direction, it is very obvious that it would take a great deal more money to transact the business between the two cities than it does now. It is equally evident that what principally obviates this necessity is business confidence in one form or another. What, for instance, would drafts and checks be good for if this confidence were annihilated? Simply between these two cities, without saying anything about the rest of the country, this confidence undoubtedly supplies the place of millions of dollars that would be needed in case it did not exist; if, indeed, we can imagine the possibility of carrying on, under such circumstances, the present amount of trade at all.

In many rural districts it was formerly the almost universal custom for the farmers to sell the principal part of their disposable produce to the proprietor of a store in the neighboring village, and to buy at the same store most of their dry goods, groceries, and whatever else they had occasion to purchase, the value of the produce sold being credited, and that of the goods bought charged to them. This practice is not so general now as it used to be, but it still prevails, as many of our readers are well aware, to a very great extent in some places. It sometimes occurs that business is transacted in this way for years in a manner perfectly satisfactory to both parties, with scarcely any money at all passing between them. We do not mention this custom by way of commending it. On the contrary, we think it would be much better if the agricultural population were more in the habit of paying cash for what they buy than they usually are. But whatever may be said about the practice in reference to the retail trade between individuals, it affords an illustration of what is absolutely necessary in great mercantile transactions between different communities, or different members of the same community. We have mentioned the trade between New-York and Chicago. The comparison will certainly not be a forced one if, in applying the illustration we have given, we liken the latter of these two cities to the farmer, and the former to the country merchant. There is an immense quantity of money, it is true, passing all the time between the two places, but we are speaking now of the proportion which this bears to the whole business done, and not of the actual amount.

Well-founded business confidence constitutes of itself an inestimably valuable kind of currency. Where this value is from any cause materially impaired, there is no such thing possible as a sufficiency of money for the business of the country; for money alone will not answer the needed purpose. And one of the essential requisites of this confidence is that the figures in account-books should have some definite meaning. The question what is indicated by the word "dollar" needs a more satisfactory answer than that of the inflationist, "A dollar is a dollar." One of the most important qualifications of a good book-keeper is, as everybody knows, that he should write a legible hand. But no scratch that pretended to be writing at all could be more indistinct and confusing than the schemes of the inflationists would render the entries of the best penman that ever exerted his skill over the pages of a ledger. Items that cannot be easily read are troublesome, no doubt; but they are not so bad as those that mean nothing in particular when they are read.

Inflation is intended to make money plenty. In one sense, it can undoubtedly accomplish this object. A great many greenbacks can be printed in a very short time, though the process will not suffice to render even the money thus created plentiful where money is most wanted. But the kind of currency of which we have been speaking requires something besides the printing presses of the Government to make it, in any sense, abundant. It is a currency which the schemes of the inflationists tend to render most disastrously scarce. Business confidence must necessarily be imperfect where the ideas conveyed by business language and business figures have no fixed or certain meaning; and this is the position in which these schemes, if carried out, would inevitably place the pecuniary interests of the whole country.

MR. CLARK'S METHOD.

A "difficulty," not wholly unconnected with revolvers, recently occurred in Illinois between a man and his divorced wife, which was so exceptional in its character as to deserve special notice. When two Western gentlemen, well armed and "spry with their weapons," open fire upon one another, the result can nearly always be predicted. As in a "difficulty" between two locomotives that meet on the same track, one is pretty sure to be wholly destroyed, while the other is seriously damaged. When, however, a woman uses a pistol in order to explain to a faithless lover, or a husband of contracted views in point of new bonnets, that his conduct is objectionable, she entirely monopolizes the shooting. The man either runs away or is shot down, in which latter case the woman is acquitted by a sympathetic jury, and kissed by her counsel and the court. That a man thus attacked should be guilty of the rudeness of drawing his own pistol, and transforming a pleasant feminine recreation into a deadly difficulty, has hitherto been unheard of. Such, however, was the course pursued by Mr. CLARK, of Fairfield, Ill., who has thereby established a precedent, which women who have acquired the habit of assassination will do well to heed.

The local Fairfield paper informs its readers that the earlier Mrs. CLARK, who for some reason objected to her husband's second marriage, arrived in the town one day last week with "a small paper package," which contained a pistol. This circumstance will be regarded as peculiarly pathetic by the advocates of the equality of the sexes, who will see in it an evidence of the tyranny of man, which forbids women to wear garments susceptible of being provided with a hip pocket for a pistol. Carrying her small paper package to the factory where Mr. CLARK was employed, she found that gentleman, and unwrapping her pistol and mentioning to him that she had finally "got him," she opened fire. Had Mr. CLARK been a man of chivalrous instincts he would, of course, have received a bullet in some convenient part of his person, and lain down to die, thus giving the lady her coveted opportunity to earn applause and sympathy as a successful husband-killer. It so happened that he returned his ex-wife's fire with promptness and effect. Mrs. CLARK fired but once, and failed to hit her game. Mr. CLARK, on the other hand, fired three times, two of his bullets entering his assailant's forehead, and both surprising and discouraging her. She was not, however, fatally injured, and we are told that she "has faith to believe that she will live to again make a target of Mr. CLARK at some future time."

The Fairfield paper comments in a peculiarly Western manner upon the weapons employed by the two antagonists. Mr. CLARK'S pistol, we are informed, carried a ball "about the size of a two-grain quinine pill"—the latter being a standard of size universally familiar in the West. That he should have used a pistol of so small a calibre is justly held to show a want of judgment which will necessarily be remembered to his discredit as a man and a marksman. Mrs. CLARK displayed even less skill in the selection of her pistol. It was "an old-style single-barreled self-cocking pistol," and the local editor regretfully remarks that "it is strange that a woman as intelligent as she is would go into an affray of this kind with such a poor weapon." Doubtless she will not repeat her mistake, but when she next makes a target of Mr. CLARK, she will arm herself with a revolver of the latest and most efficient model.

There is reason, however, to believe that Mrs. CLARK will not renew her attempt at assassination, in spite of her present avowed determination. A little reflection will show her that no lady ought to meddle with a man who has no more sense of what is due to womanhood than to shoot back when one of his wives attacks him. Indeed, if there is any prospect that Mr. CLARK'S example will be generally followed, there will be an end of an amusement that women have hitherto found as safe as it is exciting. Of course no lady is in danger of legal punishment for shooting a mere husband or a recalcitrant lover. Still, if men when shot at by women are to shamelessly and brutally shoot at their assailants, the whole charm of the thing will be at an end. A woman might as well be hung as to be publicly shot down, and have her clothing spoiled with blood and dust. Mr. CLARK'S method, however ungentlemanly it may be, is a very effective one. Public opinion in Fairfield seems to be occupied exclusively with wonder at the inefficient character of the pistols employed by the contending parties. Neither of the latter has been arrested, and it would not be strange if the Town Council were to make an appropriation for supplying Mr. and Mrs. CLARK with navy revolvers, and to invite them to renew their "difficulty" on the stage of the local Academy of Music at their earliest convenience.

DOM PEDRO.

There is no possible doubt that we are to have a real Emperor among us next Summer. Dom PEDRO, the Emperor of Brazil, has explained to his Parliament that he wants to visit the Centennial Exhibition, and that the health of the Empress is such that an opportunity of shopping in New-York is imperatively necessary. The desired permission to be absent from the Empire has been granted, and the Emperor and Empress now lie awake at night discussing the number of trunks that they will require, whether overcoats and flannel skirts will be needed in New-York, and what presents they can afford to bring back to the children.

But one reigning monarch has ever visited us. We have had one Bonaparte who afterward became an Emperor, and another Bonaparte who, having retired from business as a King of Spain, devoted his mind to cabbages in New-Jersey. King KALAKAUA was, however, the only professional King in active business who ever came to the United States with his crown in his actual possession. But KALAKAUA, although a genuine King, was, after all, a very cheap variety of monarch, and no intelligent republican could find very much solid satisfaction in gazing upon his swarthy visage. Many persons indeed refused to regard him as a real King, inasmuch as he kept his crown locked up in his trunk, and they alleged that he was only a sort of electro-plate monarch manufactured by the missionaries, and not to be compared with the genuine European article. No such doubts can be entertained as to Dom PEDRO, who reigns over a country little inferior in size to the United States, and whose genuineness as an Emperor has been certified to by the Pope himself.

The Brazilian Emperor ought to meet with a warm reception. He is not only an honest man, but an intelligent and liberal statesman and an accomplished gentleman. Under his rule, Brazil has presented the world with the spectacle of a South American nation which has made, and is making, steady progress in enlightenment and material prosperity. But for Brazil we should probably have decided that the South Americans are incapable of maintaining a government which is at once strong and liberal. Dom PEDRO, as a constitutional monarch, has certainly less power than is wielded by the military dictators who misgovern the Spanish-American republics; but he has been able to secure to his subjects the peace, prosperity, and freedom which tyrants like ROSAS and FRANCIA hated, and which patriotic and enlightened men like MOSQUERA and SARMIENTO have failed to secure.

The visit of Dom PEDRO to the United States ought to bring about a closer intercourse between the two leading nations of the North and South. Until very recently, the trade of Brazil was monopolized by English vessels, and even now the single line of steamers which connects New-York with Brazil is composed of ships which fly the English flag. The commerce of Brazil is large and valuable, and belongs naturally to the United States. If the visit of the Brazilian Emperor attracts the attention of our merchants to the trade which they have so long ignored, and induces them to transfer it from Liverpool and London to New-York, Baltimore, and New-Orleans, we shall have abundant reason for thanking Brazil for sending to our Centennial one of the most harmless monarchs of the century.

OBITUARY.

PASCHAL W. TURNEY.

Mr. Paschal W. Turney, a well-known and highly-respected member of the New-York Bar, died on Saturday evening at his residence at Astoria, Long Island, in the fifty-fifth year of his age. Mr. Turney was admitted to the Bar more than thirty years ago, and soon after became associated in business with the late Joseph B. Varnum, and for more than twenty-five years past has been a partner in the firm of Varnum & Turney and Varnum, Turney & Harison. Mr. Turney's tastes rarely led him into court, and he devoted himself almost exclusively to office and counsel business. He was universally regarded as one of the leading real estate lawyers in this City, and his high character, sterling integrity, good judgment, and thorough knowledge of the law made him an excellent adviser. He was counsel for many important corporations and large estates, and held many relations of responsibility and trust.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

MR. BEECHER AND THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

To guard against misapprehension as to the status of the General Association of the Congregational Churches and Ministers of New-York, in relation to Rev. Henry Ward Beecher at its recent meeting in Norwich, it is to be understood that, by its constitution, it is composed of "any local association, consociation, or conference in this State which declares its desire to be connected with this association, and its approval of its constitution." Being received as a constituent part of the association, it is entitled to a representation in its meetings.

Any Congregational minister who is a member in good standing in any organization described in the preceding section is a member of this General Association, (Mr. Beecher is a member in good standing in the New-York and Brooklyn association!) entitled to enrollment in any meeting thereof which he may attend. Mr. Beecher, as he chose to attend the meeting of the General Association, was entitled to enrollment. But a business committee is appointed at every annual meeting, whose duty it is to place in the hands of the Moderator at the next succeeding meeting, "a minute and well-arranged programme of the exercises and items of business which are to come before the association." At the annual meeting of the association held in the City of New-York Oct. 20, 1874, Norwich was made the place of meeting in 1875, and Rev. Edward Taylor, D. D., of Binghamton; Rev. James W. Cooper, of Lockport, and Rev. Samuel Scoville, of Norwich, were appointed the Business Committee. The report of this committee, after being put into the hands of the Moderator, is submitted to the members of the General Association and adopted or rejected, in whole or in part, as the case may be. The Chairman of the Business Committee usually makes out the programme after more or less consultation with the other members of the committee, and it is customary to send it to the ministers.

In this instance you will see that, by good management or bad, the committee had it all their own way. Besides Mr. Scoville, the son-in-law of Mr. Beecher, the committee was composed of Dr. Taylor, who, as is well known, is strong in the belief of Mr. Beecher's innocence, and Mr. Cooper, who is in the same category. What an opportunity then for these gentlemen to use the association in behalf of Mr. Beecher to the best of their and his ability. Had the meeting of the General Association been held in any other place than Norwich, in all probability this would not have been done, but at Norwich who would venture to move any amendment in the programme of the Business Committee by which Mr. Beecher would not have been made the lion of the occasion? Had Henry M. Storrs, D. D., Secretary of the American Home Missionary Society, refused to have been present, or to have been conspicuous as the friend of Mr. Beecher, the society would have been made to feel the blow. He acted, no doubt, as he felt the interests of the American Home Missionary Society required.

But it is useless to undertake to get in this way the verdict of the Congregational ministers and churches in New-York in favor of Mr. Beecher. All this may help Mr. Beecher out of this country for a time, but not in it. And now that a nolle prosequi has been entered in the case of Moulton, it is all the worse for Mr. Beecher. It is amazing that innocence should thus submit to the irrefragible inference of guilt. We concur with you, and so will the people, in "supposing, however, that Moulton has not libeled Beecher, it is clear that Beecher has libeled Moulton, and we should recommend Mr. Moulton to take proper measures to vindicate his character." Certainly there must be some way of redress for Mr. Moulton. Is it not about time now for Dr. Leonard Bacon, Sr., to step to the front again? We should like to hear from him as to the nolle prosequi. Can it be that Mr. Beecher is to suffer such "perjured rascals" as Moulton and Tilton to stay out of prison while he goes into revival preaching with Moody and Sankey? We hope not. Let him give his attention to Mr. Moulton's charge against him of adultery, and compel Mr. Moulton to retract or take the consequences.

STAMFORD.

THE ELECTION NEXT WEEK.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The credit is everywhere justly conceded to THE NEW-YORK TIMES for exposing the worst set of political thieves that ever disgraced a community calling themselves respectable. And now THE TIMES is exhibiting the same bold and praiseworthy spirit in its efforts to open the eyes of the people to the fact that the success of the Tammany ticket at the coming election will result in the forming of a "Ring" even more powerful for evil than the one under the rule of that prince of rascality Tweed. Will the wealthy and influential citizens of New-York heed the warning? The overthrow of Tweed and his thieving adherents is sufficient evidence that the honest portion of our citizens have the power whenever they will arouse themselves to action. No better investment of time and money can be made by the tax-payers of New-York than to appropriate the needed amount of each to the overthrow of Tammany and her arrogant "Boss." Can it be that this community is so lost to self-respect, so blind to its real interests, so reckless of the moral and religious welfare of society, so neglectful of one of its most important duties, as to permit another Ring to fill their gaping pockets from the public Treasury? We have furnished Tweed and his unscrupulous gang with princely fortunes, and are taxed to pay the interest on their ill-gotten gains. Are we ready and willing to stand another unlawful raid upon the City Treasury? The result of the coming election will give the answer.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Baltimore will elect its Mayor and City Council on Wednesday next.

Gen. N. P. Banks and S. S. Cox are to be among the speakers at the Democratic meeting in Faneuil Hall, Boston, to-night.

The Essex County Republican Convention, at Newark, N. J., Saturday nominated William H. Kirk for Senator, and David J. Carnfield for Sheriff. The convention was unusually large and enthusiastic.

The Prohibition candidate for Governor in Ohio received 2,553 votes. Delaware County gave the highest number, 231. In twenty-two counties no votes were cast for him, and nineteen others gave less than ten each.

The Republicans of Warren County made their nominations last week, as follows: For Member of Assembly, Robert Waddell; School Commissioner, Daniel B. Ketchum; Superintendent of Poor, Alexander T. Pasko; Justice of Sessions, Edward E. Riddell; Coroners, Buel G. Streeter and James Cromwell.

The Republican primaries at Elizabeth, N. J., Friday evening nominated the following for Councilmen: First Ward W. G. Jones; Second Ward, J. J. Hurley; Third Ward, G. W. Christopher; Fourth Ward, J. E. Marsh; Fifth Ward, J. Harvey Cory; Sixth Ward, S. William Smith; Seventh Ward, Henry Aitken, and Eighth Ward, Job Ogden.

The Supreme Court of Wisconsin has fined the canvassers of Wood and Lincoln Counties $200 for illegally throwing out the votes of those counties last year. By thus throwing out votes Judge Cate, Democrat, was "elected" to Congress over A. S. McDill by two majority, and the question is raised whether the honorable Judge will now claim the seat.

Rev. I. H. Coe, of New-Bedford, Mass., a pronounced advocate of the Prohibitory law, declares himself in favor of a further trial of the License law. He expresses the hope that the Republicans will not permit the election of another Democratic Governor of that State, and declares that the liquor question is not an issue in the present canvass, having been dropped by mutual consent.

We have not been accustomed of late years to look with much confidence to Rockland County for reinforcement of the Republican strength in the Assembly, but there is much encouragement in the present canvass, Mr. John W. Ferdon having been placed in nomination by a mass convention composed of very many of the best citizens of the county. Mr. Ferdon is a gentleman of the highest respectability and worth, whose candidature is an honor to the people and whose election would be productive of real and lasting advantage to the State. He was a member of the State Senate some years since, and the district is to be congratulated on the fact that he has been prevailed upon to accept the nomination which has now been pressed upon him by the true friends of economy and reform.

TURKEY.

THE SERVIAN AGENT AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

BELGRADE, Oct. 24.—The report recently circulated that the Servian agent had withdrawn from Constantinople is denied. The Government has no intention of recalling him.

FOREIGN NOTES.

It may be encouraging to some people to know that the senior wrangler at Cambridge this year, who is the son of a Baptist minister, is also distinguished as an athlete, and regularly rowed in his college boat.

The news from the Cape of Good Hope continues to be favorable to the cause of confederation, which, in spite of the violent opposition of the Molteno Ministry, is making rapid progress throughout the colonies.

The Courts of the Common Council of the City of London have taken action to suppress all publications not necessarily obscene, but which are calculated to be prejudicial to youth as incentives to the commission of crime.

The Official Gazette of Madrid, in summoning the first Parliament under King Alfonso, declared the civil war "happily put down," and on the same day appeared the announcement by telegraph from Santander that the Carlists were shelling Pampeluna.

The Echo (Paris) reports that the Bonapartists have sent several agents to St. Petersburg for the purpose of stating, in the name of Gen. Fleury, French Ambassador to Russia during the Empire, that an imperialist restoration appears to be imminent.

The movement for the establishment of an aquarium at Westminster is progressing rapidly. The site acquired extends over two and a half acres of land, purchased at a cost of $400,000, and the building contract accepted is $440,000. The works are to be completed by Christmas.

Repeated acts of vandalism have recently occurred in Westminster Abbey. The monument erected to Sir John Franklin has been defaced, and three times the head of Major André, who fell during the American War of Independence, has been destroyed on the tomb. The perpetrators have not been discovered, but it is stated that some American visitors are suspected.

The movement in favor of a monument to Lord Byron has been followed by a scheme for the formation of a Byron Club, the object of which is stated to be to commemorate the genius of the poet and his generous and heroic exertions for the liberation and regeneration of Greece, and to cultivate the fruition of patriotism in Greeks and Philhellenism in Englishmen, and of the mutual amity between the two nations.

The permission lately accorded by the Duke of Westminster to the artisans of London to visit his town mansion for the purpose of viewing the art treasures stored there has been crowned with success. During the Sundays of September the gross attendance averaged 600, while on the last day of the term the number reached 700. It is stated that an appeal has been sent to the Duke of Sutherland to open Stafford House for a few Sundays.

Two weeks ago a Waterloo veteran and his aged widow were buried together in one grave, in the churchyard of Newton Ferrars, South Devon. The husband, John Babbage, as a private in the Coldstream Guards, was engaged in several of the stirring events of the great French war. At Waterloo he was desperately wounded, and wore a silver plate in his skull for the last sixty years of his life. He died aged eighty-five, and his wife, aged eighty-seven, died the next day.

A solicitor named William Talley has been brought to trial in England on a charge of attempting to induce the plaintiff in a case where he was counsel for the defendant to condone the offense and accept a payment of money in place of continuing the prosecution. Talley was found guilty and sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment, with hard labor—an example which might be followed with advantage to the profession and the public here.

There are some peculiar facts concerning the distribution of the nightingale in Europe. It is found as far north as Sweden and as far west as Spain and Portugal, and yet it never visits Scotland, Ireland, or Wales. From the boundaries limiting its habitat in England, it appears that the bird is restricted to those portions of the country which are covered with secondary or tertiary geological formations. Hence it may be inferred that the insects on which it lives do not obtain means of subsistence where the primary soil prevails.

According to a report by Prof. Gintl, of Vienna, the public are becoming exposed to a new source of poisoning from the use of arsenical glycerine and the arseniate of alumina as mordants in dress fabrics to fix the now popular aniline colors. Some of these articles contain, according to this authority, as much as from fifteen to twenty-five grains of arsenious acid to the yard. The more suspicious fabrics are stated to be those of a violet ground with white figures, and those printed in brownish yellow or reddish brown designs, and which are sold at low prices.

A remarkable instance of the melancholy absence of respect for Police veracity is afforded in a touching reproof addressed to a Police constable at the Greenock Police Court, by a woman named Unity McLachlan, who was charged with having committed a breach of the peace. Mrs. McLachlan pleaded guilty to the charge, but added, in defense of her conduct, that she had been going along the street quietly, when a policeman pushed her off the pavement. "Now, on your oath," she asked one of the officers who had given evidence against her, "do you swear you did not shove me off the pavement before I spoke a word?" "Certainly," replied the officer, "I did not touch you." "Gae wa' wi' you," rejoined Mrs. McLachlan; "you'd swear a pig was a minister."

Some mischievous person has attempted to circulate a false report respecting an alleged accident to her Majesty's ship Alert, in the Polar regions, by inclosing the following, written in pencil, on a small scrap of paper, put into a small bottle, which was picked up on the beach at Clonakilty, Ireland: "On board the Alert; three days from Disco; broken by icebergs, sinking, 18th July. God help us." The Admiralty has issued a proclamation denouncing the disgraceful system of putting these untruths afloat. The Alert was seen on the 17th of July by the Valorous, all well, and the bottle, if thrown overboard on the 18th of July, must have been carried by currents 9,300 miles in sixty-eight days, or at the rate of thirty-four miles a day, which is not possible.

GOOD CANDIDATES TO ELECT.

Alderman John Robinson, the Republican candidate for re-election in the Fourth District, is one of the most active and popular members of the party in the lower portion of the City. Previous to his election to his present position, in 1874, he served several years as Deputy Marshal under Gen. Sharpe, and always acquitted himself well in the duties pertaining to his office. He is about forty years of age, a quiet and respectable citizen of good antecedents, and was formerly engaged in business in Peck slip. He is making a strong canvass, and from present appearances will win by a substantial majority.

William Wade is the Republican candidate for Alderman in the Fifth District. One of the most popular and trusted Republicans on the west side, Mr. Wade has during his four years of service in the City Legislature earned a reputation for tried integrity, firmness, and good sense which has won the hearty approval of his constituents. He was President of the Board of Assistant Aldermen under Mayor Havemeyer. During the reform fight, he was actively supported by many of the most prominent leaders of that movement, and in the election of 1872 was indorsed by the Committee of Seventy. Mr. Wade's business is that of a clothing merchant, he being the proprietor of the large retail store under the Grand Opera-house. He is a leading church member, and an energetic Sunday-school worker, and will undoubtedly have the vote of almost the entire respectable population of his district.

John J. Morris, Mr. Wade's colleague on the Republican Aldermanic ticket in the Fifth District, has been elected to the same office for which he has been renominated twice before, and is therefore thoroughly acquainted with the requirements of the place and the wants of the City at large. Mr. Morris is a grocer, doing business at the corner of University place and West Eleventh street. He is a stanch Republican, and deservedly popular with the voters of the district. His career as Alderman during the past few years has been characterized by an earnest attention to duty and a constant and untiring support of all measures for reforming the public service. When the Democrats in the board formed a ring for the purpose of defeating the appointment of the Reform Police Justices, Mr. Morris took a prominent part in defeating their schemes and securing the confirmation of the Reform candidates. In addition to his other qualifications, he is a property-holder in the district and elsewhere, and is warmly interested in the success of needful financial reform and the reduction of taxation.

The career of Col. Joseph C. Pinckney, the Republican nominee in the Sixth District, has been fully described in a recent number of THE TIMES. Col. Pinckney, in addition to his honorable record during the war, served with credit as Clerk of the Board of Aldermen in 1873 and 1874. He was also concerned in the organization of the Bureau of Arrears in the Finance Office, under Controller Hawes. Col. Pinckney's career, both military and political, has been above criticism, and his election to the Board of Aldermen in November will give his district a capable and trustworthy representative. The Colonel's old army comrades in the district are supporting him without distinction of party, and his success at the polls has already been conceded by his opponents. Among the services which he rendered to the tax-payers while an officer of the board of 1873-4 was the putting down of the Industrial Exhibition scheme, whereby the City was to have been ultimately swindled out of several millions of dollars. The ordinance to that effect had already passed the Board of Aldermen, and but for Col. Pinckney's timely interference it would have been ratified by the Assistant Aldermen. Col. Pinckney is about fifty years of age, and has been a life-long resident of the district.

Ex-Judge Henry E. Howland, the candidate of the Republicans in the Seventh District, was appointed by Gov. Dix to a vacancy on the Marine Court bench, where he served with universal credit. Judge Howland is a lawyer of experience and ability, a man thoroughly conversant with the wants of the City in general as well as of his district. He is a determined woorker, and as President of the Republican Association in his Assembly district has taken an active part in up-town politics. His excellent record and undoubted capabilities for the office led Mayor Havermeyer to appoint him Police Commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry Smith, but the Board of Aldermen refused to confirm the appointment. If elected, as he undoubtedly will be, the board will contain no more reliable or deserving member, and the City will gain by adding to its councils a man of unimpeachable character and proved ability.

Stephen N. Simonson, the second candidate on the ticket in the Eighth District, was a member of the Board of Assistant Aldermen in 1872, and was the successful Republican candidate for Alderman in 1874. He is very popular with the party, and is an energetic and untiring worker. His social and political record is a reputable one, and his undoubted strength with the leaders and masses of the party renders his election, with anything like a fair Republican vote, a certainty. In addition to the offices of Alderman and Assistant Alderman, he has held that of School Trustee of the district.

Benjamin Beyea, the first Republican nominee in the Eighth, the Harlem District, is a cooper by trade, and was a member of the Board of Assistant Aldermen in 1873 and 1874. He is a good worker, and will make an honest and capable Alderman. He is a prominent member of the Republican association of the district, and has been actively engaged in local politics for some years.

Joseph Cudlipp, the third Republican nominee in the Eighth District, is a member of the well-known Cudlipp family of Bloomingdale, and has always been identified with the district. He is a trusted political leader, and has contributed largely toward the success of the party in his locality. He is President of the Nineteenth Assembly District Republican Association, is strongly supported by the members of the party in that section, and will receive a heavy vote on election day, with a good prospect of success.

Mr. Frederick G. Gedney, the Republican candidate for Civil Justice in the Eighth District, is a native of New-York, and a lawyer in large practice, thoroughly conversant with the law and the proper administration of justice. What is far more important, in the discharge of his duties in the various public offices which he has filled, he has established a character for integrity of purpose which should entitle him to the support of every independent voter in the Eighth District. He was educated in Ward School No. 44, and subsequently elevating himself to the study of law, was admitted to the Bar in 1861. When the war broke out he at once enrolled himself in the ranks of the Union Army, and distinguished himself as a soldier. At the close of the war he returned to New-York, and has since held the position of United States Weigher in the Custom-house, under Collector Grinnell, which office he resigned to take the position of Attorney to the Department of Public Buildings. Since the opening of the present campaign he has resigned this position to accept the nomination for Civil Justice.

Archibald Watts, the Republican nominee for Assemblyman in the Twelfth District, has lived there for twenty-eight years. No one in the district can say a word against his character. He is a great favorite with the Germans, who are numerous in his neighborhood, and with their aid it is to be hoped that he will be elected.

Charles E. Heuberer, Republican candidate for Assemblyman in the Twentieth District, has an excellent record as Captain of the Sixth Regiment, New-York Volunteers, during the rebellion. He is of German parentage, and very popular in his district. He is a wholesale grain dealer.

LOCAL POLITICAL NOTES.

The independent voters of the Second Ward will raise a banner to-morrow evening, at No. 114 Nassau street, displaying the names of John K. Hackett, B. K. Phelps, and John Morrissey.

Mr. Frederick A. Batty has tendered his resignation as a member of the Tammany District Committee of the Tenth District. His reasons for the step are numerous. Among them are the reduction of the laborers' wages, the increased rate of taxation, the appointment of Fitz John Porter, the undue influence exerted by general committees over ward committees, and the dictatorial nominations of candidates.

The canvass for the election of Senator and Aldermen in the Fifth Senatorial District is progressing very satisfactorily. It is arranged that ratification meetings shall take place in the various Assembly districts composing the Senatorial district during this week. A meeting will be held in the Thirteenth District, at Liberty Hall, on Monday night; in the Ninth District, at Bleecker Building, on Tuesday night; in the Seventh District, at the Lincoln Club-rooms, on Wednesday night, and the colored people are preparing for a demonstration at Spring Street Hall, in the Fifth District.

MR. STEPHEN N. SIMONSON.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

It has been brought to my knowledge by a person of influence and standing in the Republican Party, a resident of the Eighth Aldermanic District, that an impression is abroad in some parts of the district that Mr. Stephen N. Simonson, who is one of the three persons nominated by the Republican Party for Alderman in said district, and who was upon the ticket with me last year, did not act, politically saying, "square;" that is, that he used his influence to have me left off the ticket, and by such action secured his election by doing me an injustice. I would here state that while he did receive a large number of votes in the Seventeenth and Nineteenth Assembly Districts in excess of myself, I can only attribute it to the fact that in those districts he has the confidence of a large number of voters that are not influenced by party considerations. I most respectfully assert that I have no reason to complain of any unfair treatment by Mr. Simonson, and a reference to the official returns of that election will convince my friends that I would be unjust to him and them to remain silent after I had learned that a different impression was existing in their minds.

WILLARD BULLARD.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Oct. 23, 1875.

A LEAF FROM DR. HAYES' HISTORY.

When Dr. Isaac I. Hayes, the Republican candidate for Assemblyman in the Seventh District, arrived at Boston in 1861, he heard for the first time that there was a war for the preservation of the Union. He had been shut off from all communication with the civilized world, and knew nothing about the great events taking place. The Boston papers were filled with reports of the terrible battle of Ball's Bluff and among the names of the killed and wounded he recognized those of several friends. He had been a year and a half in the icy regions of the North Pole and was anxious to see and hear tidings of many people with whom he had pleasant and friendly relations, but after reading the news of the war he thought of nothing but his country. He went to the nearest telegraph office and telegraphed to President Lincoln that his schooner, himself, and his crew, upon whose willingness to follow him he could depend, were at the disposal of the Government for the naval service. It was found that the schooner was too small for a gun-boat, and could not be used for any other purpose. Dr. Hayes, desiring immediate employment, then volunteered to serve in the medical department. He was at once appointed Brigade Surgeon, and was assigned to superintend the construction and management of Satterly Hospital, at West Philadelphia. He remained in command of this hospital until the close of the war, and 30,000 wounded soldiers were taken care of in the institution during his administration.

THE TAMMANY REVOLT.

ACTIVITY OF THE MORRISSEY MEN.

THE REVOLUTION IN THE FOURTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT—KELLY'S SUPPORTERS OF FOX LOSING COURAGE—LARGE LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS WORKING FOR MR. MORRISSEY—RESIGNATIONS FROM THE TAMMANY COMMITTEES.

The consternation which fell upon the Tammany local leaders on Saturday in consequence of the open ruptures among the general committees of the various districts was not allayed yesterday by the attempt made by Kelly and his Committee on Organization late on Saturday evening to "whitewash" the condition of affairs in the First and Fourth Assembly Districts. In all the various political circles yesterday, Republican, Tammany, and Anti-Tammany, the Morrissey-Fox contest in the Fourth Senatorial District was the leading topic of conversation. It was the very general opinion that its effects would extend all over the City, in spite of the existence of the terrorizing Committee on Discipline, and that to a greater or less extent it would lead to ultimate defiance of the "machine" mandates. It is conceded on all sides that had the troubles which have now shown themselves in the First, Fourth, and Seventeenth Assembly District Committees been apparent six weeks or even a month ago the committees would have been arrogantly arraigned, indicted, tried, and executed by Billy Boyd and the Committee on Discipline, and that their successors would have been named by Kelly to be promulgated as the ostensible choice of the Committee on Organization. But such action is dangerous on the eve of battle. In the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Thirteenth Assembly Districts yesterday the excitement was intense, and the difference of feeling at the rival head-quarters and resorts was very strongly marked. In the places where the Anti-Tammany-Morrissey men were congregated there was the utmost confidence and enthusiasm. Among the adherents of Fox and Tammany Hall there was apparent distrust, doubt, and moodiness. Until now no one ever doubted the Fourth Senatorial District—the district that, in spite of fate itself, linked its fortunes to Tweed while he was standing at the very portals of the prison, and elected him to a seat in the Senate which he never dared to occupy. But to-day everything is confusion, revolt.

Morrissey's head-quarters at the Anson House, corner of Spring and Crosby streets, where he occupies a suite of parlors, were thronged by all classes of men from noon yesterday until past midnight. Among the well-known persons who were present were County Clerk Walsh, Sheridan Shook, Cornelius Flynn, James Hayes, Michael J. Shandley, James Healy, and Dennis Burns. Sixteen different delegations of working-men, representing various trade and labor societies, prominent among them being representatives of the United 'Longshoremen's Lodges also called upon Mr. Morrissey. These combined delegations numbered not less than three hundred persons, all of whom came in a representative capacity, bringing with them credentials and resolutions adopted at their various meetings on Saturday night, warmly indorsing Morrissey's candidature, and most of them pledging themselves to the support of the entire Anti-Tammany ticket. Every man of them was received personally by Mr. Morrissey, and left well please with the assurances given them that he was earnest in the promotion of their interests. The class of 'longshoremen, boatmen, deck-hands, dock laborers, truck and cartmen, and warehousemen is very numerous in the Fourth Senatorial District, and experienced politicians estimate that they will, through Morrissey's canvass, bring an accession of not less than five thousand and perhaps eight thousand votes to the Anti-Tammany County ticket. This Fourth District revolt is due largely to Fox's personal unpopularity, and is further aggravated by the fact that his nomination is a piece of pure personal dictation on the part of Kelly, for there was at least one, and perhaps two other men in the district who would have been the choice of a free convention, if there could have been such a thing under Kelly's rule. The charges against the First Assembly District Committee, which they were called upon to answer before the Committee on Discipline on Saturday afternoon, were made by William H. Burns, one of two men of that name who are hangers-on of Fox—the other Burns having by his cannibalistic propensities earned the soubriquet of "Mike the Ear-biter." "Mike" has at this very time no less than four maimed victims in the First Ward, two of whom lack portions of their ears; a third has but a part of his nose left, and the fourth has a crippled finger. "Billy" Burns, as the other one is called, is zealous in behalf of Fox, and was quick to scent out the hostility to his master which was underlying all the actions of the committee. Among the charges was a general one alleging disloyalty to Tammany, and among the evidences of its existence was cited the fact that Mr. Muller, the nominee for Assembly, had not forwarded his acceptance of the nomination, although it had been tendered to him a week before. The facts are that the acceptance was written and handed to Justice Duffy, the Chairman of the committee, on Friday last, and that James Healy, the Chairman of the convention, had been personally informed of the fact of Muller's acceptance. It is undoubted that Fox has never very warmly indorsed any of Muller's candidatures, for Fox fears all men in the district as possible rivals, and knows no friendships unless they can be made to contribute to his personal ambition and success. Under these circumstances, he was not slow to attribute Muller's apparent tardiness in accepting to a doubtful and perhaps hostile feeling, and with the view of exacting an implicit obedience, he made complaint through Burns to the Committee on Discipline. The General Committee of the First and Fourth Districts are almost to a man against Fox, and a number of resignations which were prepared on Saturday, and which have been seen by the TIMES reporter, have not been handed in, a member of the committee who is influential among his colleagues having advised the persons for certain reasons not to hand in their letters on Saturday. It was reported yesterday afternoon that a number of additional resignations had been prepared, and would be handed in from various districts to-day.

On Saturday night a meeting was held in the First District at which, it is said, 300 votes were pledged to Morrissey. Last night he announced his intention of making a personal canvass of the whole Senatorial district every day from now until the election if possible. He states also that of the hundreds of independent voters, working men, and friends who have called on him within the past two days, not one, with the exception of three or four professional "strikers," has made any suggestion of a desire to obtain personal benefit or recognition.

DENIS QUINN CONDEMNED.

At a recent meeting of the working men of the First Judicial District the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Denis Quinn has been nominated for a third term by Tammany Hall against the wishes of the working men of the district for the office of Civil Justice; and

Whereas, The said nominee has, by his recent unmanly conduct while acting as Chairman of the Tammany General Committee, proved himself unworthy of the suffrage and respect of the working men of the district; and

Whereas, The said nominee stifled and crushed out the resolutions offered in Tammany Hall censuring the reduction of the laborers' wages; and

Whereas, He has been an abettor to the reduction of the laborers' wages to $1 60 per day; and

Whereas, The working men of the district elected him for two terms, and lifted him from social and political obscurity and placed him in prominence and affluence; and

Whereas, He has received out of the office to which the working men elected him the very large sum of $90,000 for salary alone; and

Whereas, He has sanctioned the reduction of the laborers' wages, but has been unwilling to have his own salary, $8,000 a year, reduced; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we the working men of the district, denounce this political slave as unworthy the support or respect of the working men of the district.

Resolved, That we use all our influence and all legitimate means to defeat his election for a third term.

Resolved, That we indorse the nomination and recommend the election of Hon. John Callahan, the people's choice.

MERCHANTS IN THE CANVASS.

The following call is in circulation in the Eighteenth Assembly District:

The principal feature of the present political campaign is the bold effort being made by Tammany Hall to take control of the Court of General Sessions and the office of the District Attorney. The effort, if successful, will give to Tammany Hall and its leaders that power to protect their friends and persecute their enemies which will be fearlessly and mercilessly used. Citizens in all parts of the City, men of all parties, are organizing to avert this dangerous result. The present Recorder, Hon. John K. Hackett, has made himself obnoxious to Tammany Hall and its adherents by refusing to allow his court to be used and abused by them for political purposes. The present District Attorney, Hon. Benjamin K. Phelps, is confessedly the ablest and purest prosecuting officer which the county has had for many years. By the marked ability which he has displayed in the conduct of the numerous and important prosecutions in his charge, he has gained the respect of citizens of all parties. Every public journal of note in the City indorses him and Judge Hackett, but it will be necessary to make an organized effort to defeat the perfect machinery which is run by Tammany Hall, and which controls the slums and haunts of crime in this City. It is proposed to organize a Phelps and Hackett Campaign Club in the Eighteenth Assembly District, and you are respectfully but earnestly requested to give us the benefit of your name and influence to forward the good cause in which we are engaged.

Respectfully yours, Zophar Mills, Lexington avenue and Thirty-eighth street; Abraham Underhill, No. 133 Lexington avenue; James Carr, north-west corner Thirty-seventh street and Lexington avenue; Thomas B. O'Dell, No. 124 East Twenty-seventh street; D. Willis James, south-west corner Thirty-ninth street and Park avenue; Ferdinand S. Wilmerding, No. 150 East Thirty-fifth street; Frederick H. Man, No. 125 East Twenty-seventh street; George Underhill, No. 133 Lexington avenue; Joseph U. Orvis, No. 140 East Thirty-fourth street; William M. Bruce, No. 201 East Thirty-fifth street; O. P. C. Billings, No. 143 East Thirty-fourth street; James Underhill, No. 133 Lexington avenue; Henry E. Howland, No. 300 Lexington avenue; John S. Woodward, No. 125 East Thirtieth street; M. P. Mason, No. 125 East Thirtieth street; H. M. Ruggles, No. 110 Lexington avenue.

A meeting for the organization of the proposed club will be held at the head-quarters of the Eighteenth Assembly District Republican Association, No. 457 Fourth avenue, this evening.

THE SHAM UNMASKED.

WAS IT A BLUNDER OR SOMETHING ELSE?—MR. FAIRCHILD PRESENTS A SPECIMEN OF STONE WALL—WHERE THE STONE CAME FROM—INTERESTING READING FOR THE PEOPLE.

From the Albany Journal, Oct. 23.

The Canal Board has been engaged during the past few days in the trial of the suspended engineers, Yates and Babcock. Deputy Attorney General Charles S. Fairchild, now Democratic candidate for Attorney General, has conducted the prosecution. Last Tuesday, in order to show that the engineers had certified to work on the canal which was not according to contract, Mr. Fairchild exhibited to the board samples of stone, which he said had been dug out of the wall the day before. We quote now from the report of the proceedings:

Mr. Fairchild then produced samples of the stone which he had dug out of the wall in question yesterday with a cane, and inquired of the witness if such stone were the proper kind to build a wall with.

The witness said they were not good stone.

On the Thursday following the Canal Board, accompanied by the counsel, engineers, and others, proceeded to make a personal inspection of the canal work in question. Holes were made in the wall at various points, and the character and quality of the work thus tested. We proceed now to quote from the official stenographic report of the inspection and examination made on the ground:

TEST NO. 3.

A third test-hole was dug on the west side of the canal in front of Fisher's grocery.

Mr. Miller (counsel for the engineers)—This is where Mr. Fairchild got his stone from, is it not?

Mr. Fairchild—Yes. Is this stone here on the top measured in as wall?

Mr. Gale (the contractor)—No; the stone here is rubble-stone, thrown in for filling. The wall was built this Spring.

Mr. Fairchild—It is a pretty good piece of wall, is it not?

Mr. Gale—I claim it is a good piece, and that it is all good. Wait till you get to the wall.

Mr. Jackson (Canal Commissioner)—The trouble seems to be, Mr. Fairchild, you got some of the stone of the filling and did not get down to the wall.

Mr. Raines—Did you say that stone was about the quality of the stone in the wall, Mr. Fairchild?

Mr. Fairchild—I say they are stones that came out of the wall.

Mr. Raines—They are on the top. If they are measured and paid for as wall it is all wrong. Mr. Gale, were you paid for this as wall?

Mr. Gale—No; the wall is built a certain height, and then the stick is put on and the chinking put in. This is filling.

Here is a most extraordinary development. Mr. Fairchild, on the trial of the engineers, produces samples of stone which he declares were dug out of the wall, and presents them to show that they were not the proper kind of stone to build a wall with; and it turns out that they were not dug out of the wall at all, that they were not samples of the wall, that they were not paid for as wall, but that they were simply parts of the loose filling on top—perhaps dragged in by a passing tow-line!

The question arises whether this was the blunder of ignorance or something else, and whether the investigation and representations of the Governor's Commission are of the same character? Mr. Fairchild is the legal adviser of the Commission; he derived his charges from the Commission; he proceeded upon the testimony before the Commission. The two are in spirit—the one the investigator and the other prosecutor. Mr. Fairchild takes the results of the Commission as his basis, and goes on with a prosecution; a test is applied, and it turns out that, either wilfully or ignorantly, the whole case was misrepresented and it crumbles to pieces, leaving Mr. Fairchild in the most ridiculous plight, and the work of the Commission open to the gravest suspicion.

Nor is this all. In this report of the inspection, there are many other things pointing in the same direction. We have not space to-day to reproduce all of them; but there is one which will be found specially interesting and pertinent. We quote:

TEST NO. 8.

A test hole was made near the weighlock on the tow path where Superintendent McDonough said the work was built in 1852 and had not been repaired since. It was stated to have been built under Murray & Clancey's contract; the work was done under William J. McAlpine.

Mr. Miller—The thickness of the stone on the face seems to show that a good deal of small stone has been used.

The Attorney General—I should like to know where the top of the wall is?

Mr. Gale—I don't see as that is any better work than mine.

The Attorney General—No, it is not.

Mr. Raines—Dig until you find headers and let us give this careful examination.

Mr. Fairchild—The wall is not a foot above the water.

Col. Furman, (counsel for Yates)—Was the same specification used for this work, Mr. Babcock, that was used for the other work done under you?

Mr. Babcock—Yes, Sir.

Mr. Raines—Now measure this stone; it seems to be the largest.

Mr. Hilton (engineer.)—It is one and three-quarter (1¾) feet area. (The largest stones in the late work were much larger.)

Mr. Raines—It is very irregular stone.

Mr. Hilton—There is not a flat piece here.

Mr. Raines—Where are the headers; I don't see any?

Mr. Hilton—There are none here that I can see.

Mr. Miller—Is this what you would call rubble stone, Mr. Sweet?

Mr. Sweet (the expert of the commission.)—No.

Mr. Raines—What do you say, Judge; how does it compare with the other?

The Attorney General—It is not so good as the other; it is the same kind of stone.

Mr. Raines—This is the same kind of stone, but none of it is flat; the wall is inferior to the othere. There is no header either to the stone or anything else.

Mr. Babcock—It is known as "buck-wheat stone."

Mr. Raines—Do you think that wall is equal to Gale's, or better, Mr. Fairchild?

Mr. Fairchild—No, I think it is not so good.

The State Engineer—It is not so good as Gale's wall; there is no bond or anything to it.

Thus Mr. Fairchild acknowledged that work which was done in 1852 under the same specifications, and which had gone ever since without repair, was not as good as that which Mr. Fairchild had condemned as fraudulent, and from which he had got samples only from the "filling." Was ever any sham more effectually exposed?

VIEWS OF REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE FROM CHARLES F. SANFORD AND C. GOEPP.

Following are the letters of Messrs. Sanford and Goepp accepting the nominations for Judge of Superior Court and Judge of the Marine Court:

NEW-YORK, Oct. 23, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: My nomination by the German-American Independent Citizens' Association as their candidate for the office of Judge of the Superior Court of the City of New-York affords me special gratification.

I hold in high esteem the admirable characteristics of their race, which my German friends have always manifested in their social and political relations as citizens of the Republic and of this great Metropolis, and I can have no higher aspiration than to merit as I prize the distinguished honor of their confidence and support.

CHARLES F. SANFORD.

To Messrs. Th. G. Glaubensklee, Chairman, &c.; Oswald Ottendorfer, Chairman; Charles E. Wendt, Secretary.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 22, 1875.

To the German-American Independent Citizens' Association, by Charles E. Wendt, Esq., Secretary:

GENTLEMEN: Receive a grateful acceptance of the unmerited honor of your nomination for the office of a Justice of the Marine Court of this City. The consciousness that it comes wholly unsought, and the knowledge that you number in your ranks so many of my personal friends, encourage me to overcome unfeigned misgivings as to my qualifications for so grave a trust. Deeply impressed with the necessity of disassociating the Bench from political agitation, I cannot but congratulate myself upon my share in nominations, now conferred by three political organizations, which involve a protest in favor of the unbroken independence of the Judiciary. Most respectfully yours,

C. GOEPP.

RATIFICATION MEETING IN NEW-BRIGHTON

A well-attended Republican ratification meeting was held in the Castleton Town Hall, New-Brighton, Staten Island, on Saturday evening. Mr. L. Bradford Prince, of Queens County, who presided, made a long and able speech, in which he reviewed the course he had pursued during the five years he had represented his district in the Legislature. He also spoke of his successful efforts, in which he was aided by Senator John A. King, in repealing the Swamp Drainage and Dike bill of Richmond and Queens Counties, thus freeing them from an oppressive law that would have deprived both of their whole water-fronts. Mr. Townsend, the candidate for the Assembly, and Mr. Westervelt, the nominee for County Judge and Surrogate, were present. Much enthusiasm prevailed.

GOLD CONTRACTS.

The St. Louis Republican throws out this suggestion: "New-York proposes that after Jan. 1, 1879, a dollar shall mean a dollar in gold. Why may not this reform begin at once all over the country, and this pitiable farce of concealing the fluctuations in our paper, by pretending that gold fluctuates, be put an end to at once? Let all memoranda of indebtedness hereafter incurred be expressed in gold, which is a stable representative of value. Let the man who borrows money to-day reduce the sum that he receives to its equivalent in gold and give his note for that amount in gold. The interest payments can be made in the same way, and exact justice will then be done to both borrower and lender, no matter what fluctuations in greenbacks may occur. As it is, the representative of values which we use expresses no definite quantity. A dollar means eighty-five cents to-day, eighty cents to-morrow, and ninety cents the day after. We are at the mercy of the gold gamblers and speculators, while it lies in every man's power to make himself wholly independent by simply making use of a definite instead of a variable expression."

A FATAL GAME OF CROQUET.

The Titusville (Penn.) Herald gives the particulars of the singular accident in that city on the 20th inst., by which a gentleman lost his life while engaged in a friendly game of croquet. It says: "Mr. Reuben P. Benton and Mr. J. D. Strickland were engaged in a game of croquet on the grounds in the rear of the Warren and Venango passenger depot. Both gentlemen were on the most friendly terms, and they were in the habit of playing on these favorite grounds almost daily. Mr. Strickland made a mis-play, and, as commonly occurs on such occasions among the boys, he peevishly attempted to throw his mallet after the ball. By some unforeseen chance the handle of the mallet caught in the sleeve of his coat and it was hurled in the direction of his companion, striking him on the right temple, and felling him to the ground. The accident was witnessed by a number of bystanders, who at the time did not imagine that Mr. Benton was seriously injured. His prolonged insensibility, however, created considerable alarm, and restoratives were ineffectually applied. Mr. Strickland ran in great haste for medical aid and a carriage, but before his return the unfortunate Benton was carried to his room in an insensible condition. Drs. Moody and Barr were on hand almost immediately upon his arrival, and made a searching examination of the wound. It appears that the blow, which was struck on the right temple, was not sufficient to cause a fracture of the skull at that point, but as is often the case, produced an effusion of blood at the base of the brain. Such an injury is almost inevitably fatal, and the patient lingered on until 6 o'clock P. M., when he expired without recovering consciousness."

"EX-PRESIDENT DAVIS."

The Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald is an amusing paper. In its issue for the 19th inst. it says: "Jefferson Davis, ex-President of the late Confederate States of America, reached this city from Memphis on Sunday, and is quartered at the Prentiss House. We had the honor of a call at the Herald sanctum yesterday from Mr. Davis, and are glad to assure his millions of friends that our old and honored chief is in splendid condition. The brutality of the untutored savages of Winnebago County, Ill., has neither injured his health nor disturbed his equanimity. He is not only in robust condition, but he manifests by his deportment that he is in the enjoyment of excellent and equable spirits. Mr. Davis will be in the city for some days, and we trust that his stay here will be as pleasant as he could desire."

THREE PERSONS DROWNED IN THE SCHUYLKILL.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 24.—This afternoon a carriage containing five persons was thrown into the Schuylkill River opposite Manayunk. Henry Getler, his mother, and child were drowned. Getler resided on Nineteenth street, above Brown, in this city.

SCOTT MEDAL AWARDED.

No. 979—HALL OF THE FRANKLIN INSTITUTE, }
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1, 1875. }

The subcommittee of the Committee on Science and the Arts, constituted by the Franklin Institute of the State of Pennsylvania, to whom was referred for examination THE IMPROVED WILLCOX & GIBBS SEWING-MACHINE,

Report, That they have examined the machine, and find the following points of especial interest: The AUTOMATIC TENSION, the FEED, the FEED SURFACE, the PULL-OFF, and the SPOOL-HOLDER. A detailed description of these devices may be found in the patent papers, copies of which are attached to this report.

* * * * * * *

In all sewing machines the tension is one of the most important devices, as upon it depends the proper tightness of the thread to produce perfect sewing. It is the most difficult to adjust, as it has to be altered to suit the ever-varying size of the thread, length of stitch, and thickness or nature of the material being sewed, and is hence a constant source of annoyance to the operator. This is, in the opinion of the committee, the first introduction to the public of a tension device in which there is absolutely no need for regulation, and consequently no provision made for it. The difficulties in the way of devising a plan by which the various conditions of goods and thread could be harmonized will be evident to those practically acquainted with sewing mechanism.

The device is quite simple in principle, consisting of mechanism to hold the thread firmly so that none can be drawn through until at a fixed point, and then suddenly release it, allowing whatever is required to draw through at little or no tension. The amount of thread taken at each stitch, being of course just what is required to inclose the goods) being taken out of the slack thread formed by the descent of the needle-bar take-up, it follows that when the take up rises and the looper continues to revolve, a point is reached when some more thread must be allowed to escape through the tension, or the thread will be broken. At this time the loop cast off from the looper being drawn up to the under side of the material, the tension opens, and just enough thread and no more is taken to make good the loss. The stitch being drawn up much more regularly than by ordinary friction tension, it can be left more elastic and still be apparently as well drawn up.

* * * * * * *

The Feed. The regular up and down and the variable backward and forward movements are produced from a single eccentric by the arrangements of rocker and link. The latter being adjustable to its position on the rocker to make the stitch indicated through the slot in the cloth plate. The feed surface with the teeth in the cloth plate in advance of the presser-foot enables the machine to feed goods having seams or other inequalities, without interfering with the regularity of the stitch. A "Table," stamped on the cloth plate, shows the proper size of needle and length of stitch for each size of thread or silk, so that all that now remains for the operator to do, having selected the size of threads for the goods to be sewed, is to put in the proper needle, thread up the machine, and adjust the stitch according to the table, the stitch and thread being so proportioned to each other as to produce the greatest elasticity and beauty of seam.

It is quite evident that no part of the machine has been slighted, and the general arrangement and construction of the working parts, with particular reference to speed, quietness, durability, ease of running, and adaptation to the purpose, certainly entitle it to high praise.

We recommend the award of the Scott Legacy Medal and Premium to the inventors.

L. L. CHEYNEY,
C. CHABOT.

By order of the Committee.

IT IS BUT WRETCHED POLICY to allow yourself to drift into an incurable disease by neglecting the earliest and most tractable symptoms. By contentedly waiting for a cold to get well of itself many a one has so damaged the structure of his lungs as to put himself beyond the reach of medicines before being conscious of danger. How much safer on the first indication of a cold to resort to Dr. Jayne's EXPECTORANT, an efficacious remedy for coughs, asthma, and all bronchial affections, and sure to exert a beneficial influence on the organs of the chest.—Advertisement.

GILMORE'S CONCERT GARDEN.

GRAND EXTRA NIGHT.
BENEFIT OF P. S. GILMORE,
THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 28.
ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTIETH NIGHT OF THE SEASON.
THE PROGRAMME FILLED WITH GRAND AND INTERESTING FEATURES.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN AMERICA, three grand works, written for the Boston Jubilee by eminent European composers, will be produced, namely:

A GRAND NATIONAL ANTHEM,
entitled
OUR VICTORIOUS BANNER,
by Sir Julius Benedict, of London,
for Soprano Solo, Chorus, Orchestra, Military Band, and Drum Corps;
also a magnificent setting of the 150th Psalm,
"LET ALL THINGS PRAISE THE LORD,"
by the Italian composer, Randegger,
for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra, and a
GRAND ORCHESTRAL AND CHORAL FANTASIE
entitled
"IRELAND'S GREETING TO AMERICA,"
by Sir Robert P. Stuart, of Dublin.

The latter is a highly interesting fantasie on Irish melodies, closing with a most ingenious interweaving of an Irish air, "Let Erin Remember the Days of Old," and an American air, "Yankee Doodle," moving together at the same time. While the Irish air is being sung in full chorus the American air is played by the orchestra as an accompaniment, and fills the part of a well conceived

COUNTERPOINT FIGURE TO THE STATELY CHORAL.

The preceding compositions were written for the last Boston Jubilee, but, arriving too late to be put in rehearsal for that event, will now be produced for the first time in America.

GUSTAV SATTER,

the eminent Pianist and Composer, who has recently returned from Europe for the purpose of bringing out his grand symphony, entitled "Washington," written for the Centennial and dedicated to the American people, has kindly consented to appear for the first time, after an absence of fifteen years, in compliment to Mr. Gilmore.

The highly gifted young Soprano,
Miss EMMA E. THURSBY,

who will make her first appearance at these concerts on this occasion, and will sing the famous AIR AND VARIATIONS by PROCH.

ALL THE EMINENT ARTISTS now performing at these concerts, including

LEVY, THE GREATEST CORNET PLAYER LIVING,
ARBUCKLE, OF NATIONAL CELEBRITY,
THE YOUNG APOLLO CLUB,

and other splendid soloists, will take part in the programme.

The soprano solo in the One Hundred and Fiftieth Psalm will be sung by

MME. MARIE SALVOTTI.
THE GRAND CHORUS will consist of
THREE HUNDRED SELECTED VOICES, including the
HANDEL AND HAYDN SOCIETY, of Brooklyn.

GILMORE'S BAND, ONE HUNDRED PERFORMERS, will play for the first time Litolff's grand overture, "Robespierre," introducing the "Marseillaise;" also Liszt's "Rhapsodie Hongroise" No. 2, with which they have already created such a furore, and the "Reminiscences of Meyerbeer:" closing with a scene from the "Huguenots," in which the full chorus will join.

THE FAMOUS ANVIL CHORUS,
FOR THE FIRST AND ONLY TIME THIS SEASON.

There was no more "popular" piece introduced at the Boston Jubilee than the "Anvil Chorus," popular with the masses who made no pretension to a familiarity with or knowledge of music in its higher forms. It was indirectly through guns and anvils that tens of thousands were induced to visit Boston during the Jubilee to hear, perhaps for the first time, the grand choruses and chorals of Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Mozart, and other great masters, thereby promoting the cause of music through means that seemed ridiculous to the musician and the critic.

Many requests having been made for the production of this piece during the past season, it will now be brought out for the first time at these Concerts with all the effect possible, including the Grand Chorus, the Young Apollo Club, the Orchestra, Military Band, Drum Corps, and twenty-four Anvil Beaters. The Anvil part will be played by the Drum Corps of the Twenty-second Regiment, dressed in appropriate costume to add to the effect of the scene.

Tickets $1. Private Boxes, admitting FOUR, $5. A limited number of tables, with FOUR SECURED SEATS, price $5, will also be reserved.

TICKETS NOW READY AT THE BOX OFFICE.

KINGS COUNTY POLITICS.

BRIGHT PROSPECT FOR REFORMERS.

THE DEMOCRATS FRIGHTENED—THE RIVAL CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR—A CERTAIN GAIN IN THE ASSEMBLY DELEGATION—THE BOARDS OF ALDERMEN AND SUPERVISORS LIKELY TO BE REPUBLICAN.

The prospect for the success of the entire Republican ticket in Kings County next Tuesday is most encouraging. During the week just past all the candidates have developed unexpected strength, but none in such a marked degree as Mr. F. A. Schroeder, the Republican candidate for Mayor. It was expected when Mr. E. T. Backhouse, the Reform candidate for Mayor, withdrew, the strength of the Reformers would naturally be given to the support of the Republican ticket. This expectation has been fully realized, and besides a number of prominent Democrats, who were not particularly identified with any reform movement, but who desire the downfall of the corrupt Democratic Ring, have boldly announced their intention to vote for Mr. Schroeder and work for his election until sundown on the 2d of November. Not the least prominent among these is Mayor Hunter. He is working with all his might for the reform movement, and his influence will undoubtedly have great weight with the respectable portion of his party. The scandalous manner in which he has been treated by the Brooklyn Ring has aroused the indignation of reputable Democrats, and they will give their aid, with that of the Mayor, for the election of Mr. Schroeder. The issues in the local campaign in Kings County this Fall are clearly defined. The fight is squarely between the taxpayers on one side and McLaughlin, Kingsley and Company's Ring on the other. Already Mr. Schroeder has pledged himself to prosecute, if elected, the men who have been fleecing the city for the past ten or eleven years. His speech at the Assembly Rooms on Thursday evening, and his address in the Academy of Music on Saturday night, aroused throughout the city intense enthusiasm. There was no politic playing with words such as candidates for office so often indulge in. He put himself squarely on the record when he announced his determination to drive out from Brooklyn the men who for years have robbed the city. Men high in the councils of the Democratic Party had been called thieves by name and had made no attempt to clear themselves of the charges preferred against them in both Democratic and Republican papers. Into these charges he meant to have an investigation instituted, and if the allegations were proved he would, with the help of honest citizens of every political creed, bring about the punishment of the guilty ones.

BLUNDERS OF M'LAUGHLIN'S CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

McLaughlin's candidate for Mayor has on the contrary been losing ground with the people. Even his own party organs can find nothing to say in his favor. His unfortunate speech a few days after his nomination, in which, in a moment of excitement, he revealed his real sentiments by advising the people to vote for the nominations made by the leaders at all hazards, cost his party several thousand votes. Every thinking man became convinced then that, although Mr. Rowe is a respectable merchant, he has allowed his ambition to get the better of his discretion, and accepted as the price of his fealty to McLaughlin the Democratic nomination for Mayor. McLaughlin, conscious of the blunder made by his candidate, has conveyed to Mr. Rowe a strong hint that the less he speaks during the campaign the better.

The record of the notorious James Howell while in the Board of Supervisors has been made the subject of many speeches at ward meetings during the week, and it is safe to say that as a result Howell's chances of election have not increased. His Republican opponent, Mr. John Davies, is, although not widely known in politics, a perfectly upright man. He will receive the votes of all who desire to defeat one of the worst and most dangerous creatures of the Ring. The fight for the Sheriff's office has been waged warmly on both sides during the past week. The fact that Nevens is running on the same ticket with Howell will hurt him a good deal, and, aside from that, his own record will not bear examination. Mr. Alfred Daggett, the Republican candidate, will gain a great many Democratic votes because of his personal popularity, and the chances are now that he will be elected by a handsome majority. The chances of the Republican candidates for Commissioners of Charity being elected, good from the first, are rapidly increasing. Messrs. Hutchinson and Harmon will receive, along with their party vote, the vote of every reformer in Brooklyn, while their opponents, Messrs. Bogan and Norris, will, in all probability, be cut largely by the Democrats.

M'LAUGHLIN'S CRITICAL POSITION.

The best evidence of the brightening prospects of the Republicans and Reformers is offered by the fright which has seized upon the Democrats. Even McLaughlin is frightened by the defection of such men as Gen. Slocum and D. P. Barnard. But although frightened, McLaughlin is determined to win at all hazards. Success this Fall is absolutely necessary to him. The nominations are confessedly his, and should the Democrats fail, his power as a leader would be, if not wholly broken, so badly crippled that years must elapse before he could again assume the leadership of his party. There is the best reason for believing that illegal registration has been carried on to a large extent in the Democratic wards. Already they have gone so far as to have the vagrants and lodgers who happen to seek shelter in the station-houses register their names at the polling places and give the street number of the station-houses where they lodged for the night as the number of their residence. This is not all. In the Twelfth and Twenty-fourth Wards, the dwellings in which are largely composed of shanties and tenement-houses, the Democrats have been "colonizing," trusting to the difficulty in making out the number and location of the shanties to avoid detection. It has been customary heretofore to send a policeman to each place of registration during the days of registration to preserve order and arrest any persons who sought illegally to put their names on the lists. On the first day of the registry this year the Captains, as usual, sent an officer to each polling place. As the presence of a policeman might interfere with the Democratic methods of procedure, a peremptory order was sent out from Police Head-quarters directing the Captains not to send officers to the polling places on any of the following days of registry. These desperate efforts to win at all hazards will, however, prove unavailing. The Republicans put to work some time ago a large force of intelligent men, who have ferreted out most of the cases of illegal registration. The parties are known, and if they offer to vote will be arrested and sent to the Penitentiary. Republicans should take particular care to challenge those who have been illegally registered in the Second, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, and Twenty-fourth Wards. No effort should be spared to prevent a repetition of the ballot-box stuffing which took place in some of these wards during the election of 1871.

A WARNING AGAINST POLITICAL BARGAINS.

All bargains for ward officers should be avoided by the Republicans. With the Board of Supervisors to be elected in November will rest the duty of redistricting the county. The Democrats, to gain control of this board, will make or offer to make any bargain. They will be quite willing to exchange an Alderman in almost any of the odd wards for a Supervisor. The Aldermen elected in the odd wards will go out of office in one year, while the Aldermen elected in the even wards will hold office for two years and have an opportunity to vote in May, 1877, for the men who will compose, after that date, the various commissions by which the city is governed. Their principal object this year, therefore, will be to elect a majority of the Board of Supervisors and the Aldermen in the even wards. The danger of trading for ward officers is apparent, and should be guarded against by every Republican.

Two years ago Kings County sent one Liberal Republican in the person of Mr. John Coe, and one Democrat in the person of Mr. John C. Jacobs to the Senate. This year it will send one regular Republican from the Second District in the person of William Richardson, and possibly another in the person of Col. James Cavanagh, of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, who will run against John C. Jacobs in the Third District. Mr. Jacobs' identification with the Ring is too well known to require extended mention. Of John R. Kennaday, Mr. Richardson's opponent in the Second District, it may be said that while in the Assembly last year he voted for every measure put forward in the interest of the Brooklyn Ring. In the Assembly delegation from the county the Republicans will certainly gain one, and very probably three. The Second, Fifth, and Sixth Districts are certain, and there are excellent chances of success in the Eighth and Ninth.

PROBABILITIES IN THE ASSEMBLY DISTRICTS.

In the First District Bradley, who won as an Independent last year, has received the regular Democratic nomination this year. He will be opposed by Dennis Sullivan as an independent. The district is strongly Democratic, and the Republicans have made no nomination. In the Second District Jonathan Ogden has been nominated by the Republicans, and will be elected. The Third District is hopelessly Democratic, and McLaughlin has given the nomination this year to Michael Coffee, who has held the position for some years, and is one of McLaughlin's most faithful benchmen. The Fourth District is Democratic, and Mr. T. V. W. Talmage has received the nomination of that party. Mr. Bergen has received the Republican nomination, and if a strong stump candidate starts in the race it is possible that the Republican candidate may be elected. The Fifth District is overwhelmingly Republican. E. P. Higgins has received the nomination, and will be elected. The Democrats have made no nomination. In the Sixth District Hon. Jacob Worth has been nominated by the Republicans, and will be elected. In the Seventh District no Republican has yet accepted the nomination; Mr. John Coe could carry the district, and ought to take the nomination. In the Eighth District Adrian M. Suydam has been nominated by the Republicans, and Bernard Silverman by the Democrats. The contest is a close one, and Mr. Suydam has an excellent chance of winning. In the Ninth District Col. Cropsey, a gentleman of great popularity and political strength, has been nominated by the Republicans. John McGroarty, who represented the district last year, has received the Democratic nomination.

REGARDING WARD OFFICERS.

With regard to the ward officers, it is always difficult a week before election to predict anything with safety. The Republicans claim the First, Third, Seventh, Tenth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, and Twenty-fifth Wards, and they have strong hopes of carrying the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Wards. This would give them a good working majority in the Boards of Aldermen and Supervisors. The Democrats claim the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, and Twenty-fourth. The Republican candidates thus far nominated are:

| | Aldermen. | Supervisors. |

BROOKLYN REPUBLICANS.

There was a crowded audience at Centennial Hall, corner of Flatbush avenue and Bergen street, Brooklyn on Saturday night. The meeting was presided over by Amos F. Learned. On opening the meeting the President urged the necessity of every man in the ward casting his vote as the only means whereby the City could be redeemed from the rule of the Democratic Ring. Speeches were made by Messrs. M. J. Dolphin, who arraigned the Democratic Party upon the falsity of its position in the State; by Tennis V. Bergen, who called the attention of voters to the necessity of going to the polls en masse, to rescue the State and City from the clutches of those who are robbing citizens of all that is dear to them, and by Judge Marvin, who, in speaking of the Democratic candidates, stated that Mr. Mandeville, the Democratic candidate for Supervisor of the Twenty-second Ward, had given utterance to the wish during the war that all the Union soldiers then in rebel prisons would die there and rot. Mr. Dutcher was received with hearty welcome, and made a ringing and convincing speech. He said of Gov. Tilden that he had amassed a great deal of money by being counsel for soulless corporations and by lobbying both at Albany and Washington. Mr. Fritz, candidate for Alderman of the ward, spoke of the frauds that had been practiced upon the city and county treasury, and gave his solemn promise that if elected he would labor for the best interests of all the citizens in the ward and city honestly and uprightly. Capt. James Tanner made the last speech, promising, in the name of his brother soldiers who served in the late war, whether Democratic or Republican, that the man Mandeville should be so buried by votes against him that he never would come to the surface on the sea of politics again. The meeting adjourned with cheers for the candidates.

THE KNICKERBOCKERS' COMPACT.

DEATH OF ONE OF THE LAST SEVEN DOMINEES OF THE OLD TONTINE ASSOCIATION—A FORTUNE TO BE DIVIDED.

Mrs. Maria Bayard Campbell, whose name is identified with the history of the old Tontine Association, died on Saturday, aged eighty-seven years. She was the widow of Duncan P. Campbell. Her father, Nicholas Bayard, was one of the original shareholders in the Tontine Association, founded in this City in 1792. The shareholders were mostly Knickerbocker merchants, and their object was to establish an exchange and noonday resort for the mercantile trade. There were 200 shares in the association, each share representing a life or nominee. The nominees were mostly children and nephews and nieces of the shareholders. The shares cost $200 each, and the money was invested in the real estate known as the Tontine property in Wall street, corner of Pearl street. A compact was made that, when the number of surviving nominees should be reduced to seven the property should be sold and the proceeds divided among the holders of the seven shares.

Mrs. Campbell was one of the final seven. Mr. Bayard owned a share on her life and one on that of his son, William Bayard. Only four of the nominees, who originally numbered 200, are now living. These are Robert Benson, aged eighty-nine years; John P. De Wint, aged eighty-seven; David Murray Hoffman, aged eighty-four, and Mrs. Mary Ray King, aged eighty-four. Mrs. King is the widow of ex-Gov. King. Hon. Gouverneur Kemble and Mrs. Campbell's brother, recently deceased, were among the surviving seven nominees. Mr. Kemble was ninety years of age at the time of his death, and Mr. Bayard was eighty-seven years. The shares on his and his sister's lives are owned by Mr. W. T. Horne, a wealthy retired merchant, who bought them from the Bayard family. They have increased in value from their first cost, $200, to upward of $100,000. Suits are pending in the Supreme Court for the distribution of the Tontine property among the owners of the shares on the lives of the last seven nominees. The property is worth about $1,000,000.

Mrs. Campbell was a descendant of Nicholas Bayard, who came to this City with Peter Stuyvesant from Holland in the early part of the sixteenth century. Her sister is the widow of the last Patroon of Rensselaer County. Mrs. Campbell is to be buried on Tuesday in old Trinity churchyard.

THE TURF.

THE NEW RACE-COURSE AT WASHINGTON AND ITS APPOINTMENTS—ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE COMING RACING AND TROTTING MEETINGS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Great interest was shown at Pimlico in the first meeting of the Washington Driving Park, and the continuance of the delightful weather has encouraged the turfmen to bring their stables to Washington. The new race-course, situated at Benning's Station, on the Baltimore and Potomac and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads, and known as the Washington Driving Park, will be opened this week by a series of running races, commencing on Tuesday, the 26th inst., and continuing Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, the 27th, 28th, and 29th. There will be five races each day, the purses amounting to $5,500. The new course is laid out on the plan of the Hartford (Conn.) race-course, and has a mile track in most perfect order. It is the enterprise of F. P. Hill, of Washington, at his own individual expense. The stables attached to the course contain sixty-five box stalls. The grand stand is 40 feet by 200 feet, and is furnished with settees and cushioned seats. Adjoining the grand stand are reception and toilet rooms, neatly furnished and commodious. The judges' stand has three floors, with the usual arrangement.

For the opening races this week the following stables have already arrived: John Coffee's, D. McDaniel's, J. Donahue's, Dr. Weldon's, Davis', Miller's, Barton & Medinger's, Atchison's, Hitchcock's, and others. Other entries are expected. The first meeting on the new course promises to be a great success, and no doubt will attract large crowds.

On Tuesday, Nov. 2, a week of trotting will be commenced, for which ninety-four entries have been made, being by far the largest number of horses ever entered at any meeting in the District of Columbia. All the best horses that contested in the recent races at Brightwood and Prospect Park have been entered, and this meeting will develop more enthusiasm and better racing than has heretofore been seen about Washington.

THE DAUNTLESS AND THE MOHAWK.

The match race between James Gordon Bennett's schooner-yacht Dauntless and Vice Commodore W. T. Garner's new schooner-yacht Mohawk will be sailed to-morrow. The distance to be sailed is forty miles—twenty miles to windward and return, starting from the Sandy Hook Light-ship at 10 o'clock A. M. It was at one time feared that the recent accident to the Mohawk had so disabled her that she would not be ready to sail on the day appointed, but she has been put in perfect racing trim and was towed to Staten Island on Saturday. The Dauntless has also been put in perfect readiness for the event. The steam-tug Cyclops will act as stake-boat. The sloop race, the result of Mr. Russell's challenge, will also be sailed to-morrow, with a special tug to act as stake-boat, in order to accommodate those who desire to witness both races. The Cape May race, between Mr. Hatch's Resolute and the Dauntless, was to have taken place on Saturday next, but has been postponed until Wednesday, Oct. 27, on account of the racing at Jerome Park on Saturday. In the Cape May races Mr. Leonard W. Jerome will sail on board the Dauntless as judge for Mr. Hatch, and Capt. Robert Kalce will go on board the Resolute to look after the interests of Mr. Bennett. Should the breeze not be favorable, the yachts will remain off the light-ship until it works in proper form, as both owners are anxious to have the contest decided.

JUDGE KELLEY'S THEORIES.

RECEPTION OF THE THREE-SIXTY-FIVE BOND PROJECT IN THE SOUTH—HIS SPEECHES AT MACON AND ATLANTA.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Judge Kelley, who has been in Georgia attending the State Fair held at Macon, has returned and is delighted with the reception given him and the attention paid his speeches on the currency question delivered at Atlanta and Macon. He says the greetings he received strengthen the conviction that the majority of the people indorse his financial theories. He is not discouraged with the verdict in Ohio, and thinks the result cannot be claimed as a victory for hard money. He has no apprehension that the Ohio election will influence the vote in Pennsylvania. He says the inflationists have organized greenback clubs in every section of Pennsylvania, and that an effectual work is being accomplished in a quiet way by the distribution of pamphlets advocating paper money. Henry C. Carey's office in Philadelphia is the head-quarters for the work of pamphleteering the State, and the constantly increasing demand for these pamphlets leads him to believe that much good is being done the inflation cause by the dissemination of the speeches and writings of his school of finance. He believes Hartranft will be defeated, and that the mining and industrial counties in the central and western parts of the State will show large losses for the Republicans. Judge Kelley has numerous invitations to deliver addresses in various counties of Pennsylvania, but will not decide upon his course of action in the campaign until after his return to Philadelphia. He will leave here to-morrow for his home.

THE TREASURY.

POINTS IN THE FORTHCOMING REPORT OF TREASURER NEW.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—It is understood that among the prominent features of the forthcoming report of the Treasurer of the United States, the following recommendations, affecting the redemption of national bank notes, will be made:

First—That the National Bank Redemption Agency be made a separate bureau in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, under the charge of a superintendent, who shall give bond for the faithful discharge of the duties.

Second—That the five per cent. redemption fund shall be kept in the Treasury, but subject to the checks of the Superintendent, and that they be payable in currency or drafts on New-York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, or other Sub-Treasuries.

Third—That banks or others sending national bank notes for redemption be required to prepay the express charges to Washington, and that for all other expenses of this agency national banks shall be allowed to deduct from their next semi-annual return of tax upon circulation the amount of any assessment that may be made, as also in their next return the amount of assessment heretofore made.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE UNITED STATES RESPONSIBLE FOR THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST OF THE DISTRICT BONDS—SUCCESS OF THE FISH COMMISSION IN CALIFORNIA—THE GOLD AND SILVER YIELD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Some time since the Commissioners of the District addressed a letter to the President making certain inquiries as to the liability of the United States in providing for the 3.65 District bonds authorized by Congress under the act of June 20, 1874. Attorney General Pierrepont has given an elaborate opinion, directed to the President, confirming the decision heretofore rendered, that "the faith of the United States is unqualifiedly pledged for the payment of the interest and principal at maturity." Charles O'Conor, Esq., of New-York, also coincides in this decision, and regards the bonds issued by the authority of Congress as a Governmental bond, and should be so recognized.

The establishment of the United States Fish Commission, under the direction of Mr. Livingstone, on the McCloud River, in California, for securing eggs of the California salmon for introduction into Eastern waters, and which has just been closed for the season, has been extremely successful in its object, no less than nine millions of eggs having been obtained. The greater part of these have already been shipped to the Fish Commissioners of the various States, to be by them hatched out and planted in appropriate waters. Due provision has been made for a supply to the waters of every State. Large numbers have been sent to Texas to be hatched out under the direction of the commission. Several millions of salmon eggs are now being hatched out in the waters of the McCloud River for the increase of the supply in the Sacramento. Part of the expense of this latter work is borne by Gov. Stanford and other public-spirited citizens of California. Operations in connection with the taking of the eggs of the sea salmon and of the land-locked salmon of Maine have also been commenced, and are progressing successfully under direction of Charles G. Atkins.

Dr. Linderman, the Director of the Mint, is hopeful of the future productions of gold and silver. From his late personal observations, he thinks the sum total next year will be $100,000,000, of which amount the Comstock lode will furnish one-half.

The Charlotte (Va.,) National Bank having suspended, a Government agent will take charge of the bank for investigation into its affairs.

The case of the watchman at the Chesapeake and Ohio Depot, at Staunton, charged with violating the Civil Rights bill, by putting a colored woman out of the passenger waiting room, was tried at Harrisonburg, before Judge Rivers, of the United States District Court, and resulted in a "hung" jury, there being eight for acquittal and four for conviction.

The following circular has been issued from the Treasury Department:

OCT. 23, 1875.

To Collectors of Customs:

Referring to circular instructions of the department dated Oct. 3, 1874, relative to the free admission of articles intended for the Centennial Exhibition, you are instructed that article 3 is amended by inserting in lieu of the words "a civil magistrate," the words "an accredited Commissioner of the foreign Government." The department is engaged in the preparation of amended regulations governing entries of such goods, which regulations will be made as liberal as possible consistent with the restrictions of the act authorizing the free admission of such goods.

CHARLES F. CONANT, Acting Secretary.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

Shortly before 8 o'clock last evening a fire broke out on the first floor of the five-story brick building No. 356 West Thirty-seventh street, occupied as a workshop and dwelling by George Lauss, harness-maker. The fire was quickly extinguished, and a very slight loss was sustained. An examination of the premises by the Police led to the suspicion that the fire was of incendiary origin. The stock on the premises was very light, and it was ascertained that Lauss is insured for $2,000 in the Germania Company. A horse-blanket, partially burned, and which had been saturated with kerosene, was found on the floor. Capt. Washburne, of the Twentieth Precinct, ordered the arrest of Lauss and his wife, and they were locked up at the West Thirty-seventh Street Police Station to await examination by Fire Marshal Sheldon.

An unfinished house, valued at $1,200, on the corner of Madison and Union avenues, Brooklyn, was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday night. The fire was the work of an incendiary. Insurance unknown.

A special to the Cincinnati Commercial from Valparaiso, Ind., says a fire there yesterday morning destroyed several buildings. Loss, about twelve thousand dollars; insurance, $7,500.

A fire occurred yesterday afternoon on the second floor of No. 62 Baxter street, occupied by Reuben Lippenstein, resulting in $100 damage.

MARINE DISASTERS.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, Oct. 24.—The schooner Havana Packet, from Hayti, arrived at Bermuda Oct. 16, to load, bringing Capt. Gifford and the crew of the whaling bark Edward Everett, from New-Bedford, which foundered at sea during a hurricane on the 6th inst. in latitude 39° north, longitude 65° west. The crew were taking to the boats when the Havana Packet hove in sight. Nothing but the personal effects of the Captain and crew were saved.

The American brigantine Reponset, from Wilmington, N. C., with naval stores, was towed into St. George's, Bermuda, on the 17th inst. She experienced a severe gale on the 10th, was strained and leaking badly, and had to throw overboard two or three hundred barrels of cargo.

SYNOPSIS AND PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—1 A. ## BURNING OF A SWEDISH STEAMER.

The Copenhagen correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette writing to that journal on Oct. 6, says: "From the additional particulars which I have gathered about the burning of the Swedish steamer, and the terrible calamity which accompanied this disaster, there can now no longer be any doubt that the fire was caused by the spontaneous combustion of some large bottles, declared to contain glycerine, but which actually contained naphtha. The Captain, who stood on the bridge, heard suddenly a dull report, and turning round, called out to the man at the wheel to know what was the matter; but before even he could receive a reply the flames had burst out with fearful violence, rising up to the middle of the masts, and completely cutting off all communication between the fore and the after part of the ship. The second-class passengers, whose cabin was in the fore part of the steamer, are supposed to have been all burned in the cabin, but the two stewardesses were heard screaming, and seen dimly through the smoke and flames during some time. Some horses which were on board were also heard wailing piteously. As soon as the cry of 'Fire!' was raised, all the cabin passengers, including many ladies, rushed out, and, as usual in such cases, rendered the scanty means of being saved still more difficult by clinging to the Captain and the officers, and when ultimately a boat was lowered, by rushing wildly into it, thus capsizing it, and falling into the foaming waves, where they soon found a watery grave. But one passenger who had the presence of mind to remain cool and stay close to the Captain was saved. As far as it is possible to judge, the papers of the steamer being all burned, twenty-four passengers have perished, of which nearly half were women. One poor stowaway lad was also drowned. Among the ladies was a young girl, about eighteen years of age, the only child of a widow lady residing here. When the mother heard of the catastrophe she fell into a swoon, and when she awoke she was found to be idiotic. All the papers demand a most searching inquiry to find out the person who shipped the naphtha at Lübeck. The Captain, who is much burned, as well as the sailors, is stated to have behaved most gallantly under these terribly trying circumstances. The steamer is sunk close to the shore in some four fathoms of water, and divers will at once proceed to recover the bodies of those passengers who are believed to have died in the cabins. Besides the passengers, eight of the crew, including most of the officers, lost their lives through the capsizing of the boat when lowered into the sea, which was unusually rough. The catastrophe has caused a deep impression and cast quite a gloom over people in Copenhagen."

A FRENCH INTERPRETATION OF "LOTHAIR."

The Pall Mall Gazette of Oct. 11 has the following: "Most readers of Lothair have probably fancied that they understood pretty clearly the meaning of that novel. M. Philarète Chasles, however, (in a posthumous volume published by MM. Charpentier,) observes that he has nowhere found an explanation of the characters and types contained in it, and he enters at some length into what he supposes to be the interpretation of the work. First as to the hero: 'Lothaire, c'est le peuple, la masse, Liud-Heer, "l'armee des leudes," l'universalite.' The three ladies 'who dispute the possession of Lothair'—this is a cruel slur on Theodora—are Catholicism, the Revolution, and Protestantism. Mr. Phœbus is a type of modern Italy. He has married a Cantacuzene—that is Greece. He refuses 'the Greek dowry'—that is to say, he detaches himself from the Greek Church, and embraces Catholicism. The dedication to the Duke of Aumale is, of course, a protest against 'imperialist tendencies.' M. Philarète Chasles' last book contains one or two interesting notes on English literature; thus, it is interesting to learn that 'the Scotchman Carlyle,' loves to write on music. Again, it must be a source of gratification to those who pray for the peace of the Church to know that Dr. Colenso has at length ceased to be Bishop of Natal. His successor is apparently one 'Voisey.' Here is another fact: 'In England a college is a venerated sanctuary. The admirable English poet, Tennyson, lodges in a college at Cambridge, and the Queen visits him there.' On recent events the author of La Psychologie Sociale remarks that he has consulted various eminent writers, among them 'Mr. Otway, a diplomatist, who, under the name of "Scrutator," has, in English fashion, thrown the light of figures on some strange and mysterious diplomatic stratagems,' and also 'the Emeritus Professor, Francis William Newman, a professor become free thinker, a free thinker become Catholic, the most delicately shaded intellect * * * that Europe has possessed since St. Augustine.'"

DAVIS ON JACKSON.

Gov. Kemper, of Virginia, has received the following letter from Jefferson Davis in reply to an invitation to attend the inauguration of Foley's statue of Stonewall Jackson:

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 14, 1875.

Gov. James L. Kemper:

MY DEAR SIR: Please accept my sincere thanks for your kind letter inviting me to be present at the inauguration of the statue of Gen. Thomas J. Jackson. I truly regret that I am compelled to be in Mississippi on the day of that inauguration. The admiration and affectionate remembrance with which I regard our departed hero would make it particularly gratifying to me to unite with you in manifestation of the respect which all who knew him must feel for that unwavering patriot and distinguished soldier. Please make my acknowledgments to the Commissioners, and accept for yourself assurance of the high respect and regard with which I am faithfully your friend.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

A QUEER INSECT.

There was captured in the streets of Austin, Nev., the other day, a curious insect, which the Reveille thus describes: "It is of the tarantula order, and its back, which is about the size of a twenty-five cent piece, is pure white in color, and when viewed from one side presents the exact marks of the features of a human face, with a complete mustache. When viewed from the reverse side the marks assume the appearance of the face of an animal of the feline species." The animal was embalmed in alcohol, and placed among the curiosities in the cabinet of the Sazerac saloon at that place.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

A man about fifty years of age, whose name is not known, and who was employed as a tobacco-stripper by Mary Berlag, died suddenly yesterday while at work at No. 112 Sheriff street.

We are once more indebted to the management of the White Star Line for valued additions to our European files, received last night by the Celtic, which left Liverpool on Oct. 14 and Queenstown on Oct. 15.

An unknown woman, about twenty-four years of age, fell overboard last evening at Pier No. 6 East River, and was drowned. Her remains were subsequently recovered and taken to the Morgue for identification.

Mollie Smith, aged twenty-one, attempted to commit suicide by taking laudanum last evening at her residence, No. 94 Sullivan street. She was attended by Police Surgeon Walker, and was pronounced out of danger.

John Malenari, an Italian, residing at No. 143 Elm street, was yesterday committed by Justice Otterbourg, at the Tombs Police Court, in default of $1,000 bail, to answer a charge of having wounded Samuel Otto, of No. 14 Essex street, with a knife.

Right Rev. Bishop Corrigan, of New-Jersey, visited Randall's and Hart's Islands on Saturday, and administered the rite of confirmation to about four hundred and fifty children. This number included 150 of the boys belonging to the school-ship Mercury.

Harman Hubbingberg, aged thirty-five, a resident of Jersey City, while carrying baggage from the steam-ship Celtic, at pier No. 52, North River, yesterday, fell from the gang-plank and fractured his right leg. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Six pieces of twilled muslin, marked "Laconia Mills, Lewiston Bleachery," were found yesterday by Patrolman Hogan, of the Thirty-first Precinct, in the woods at Seventy-second street and Hudson River Railroad, and are supposed to have been stolen from a passing freight train.

James Boyle, a native of Ireland, aged thirty-eight, died yesterday at his late residence in One Hundred and Forty-third street, near the North River, from injuries received on Saturday by falling from the roof of the Manhattan Iron Works, foot of West One Hundred and Forty-third street.

Lizzie Quinn, of No. 400 East Fortieth street, was arraigned before Justice Otterbourg, at the Tombs, yesterday, charged with snatching a small sum of money from the hand of Thomas Donohue, of No. 199 South street. She pleaded not guilty, and was held to answer in default of $1,000 bail.

John O'Brien, aged thirty-seven, who resided in Eighty-first street, near the Boulevard, was found dead at an early hour yesterday morning in an excavation for a sewer in the Boulevard, near One Hundred and Forty-eighth street. He is supposed to have fallen into the sewer while intoxicated. Coroner Woltman will make an investigation.

John Bromer and Lawrence Hefner, a full account of whose arrest on a charge of receiving stolen goods from Charles Kingsley, clerk of Mr. James W. Bell, of No. 172 Fifth avenue, appeared in THE TIMES of yesterday, were arraigned before Justice Otterbourg, at the Tombs Police Court, yesterday morning. They pleaded not guilty, and gave bail to appear to answer in the sum of $2,500 each.

John Murphy, aged twenty-one, a laborer, was arrested on Saturday evening on complaint of William T. Stevenson, an Inspector of Election in the Eighth Election District of the Fifth Assembly District, who charged him with having registered illegally. Murphy swore that he lived at No. 425 East Eighteenth street, and on subsequent investigation it was ascertained that he did not live there. He was locked up for examination.

On Saturday night last John Maloney, of No. 56 Cherry street, effected an entrance into the liquor saloon of Joseph David, of No. 197 South street, and stole 500 cigars, valued at $25, and a small sum of money. In endeavoring to make his escape, the burglar was arrested by Officers Stanton and Lamb, of the Oak Street Station, who found a portion of the goods upon his person. On being arraigned before Justice Otterbourg, at the Tombs, yesterday, the prisoner pleaded not guilty and was committed in default of $2,500 bail to answer.

BROOKLYN.

Patrick Grogan had his skull fractured by the kick of a horse on Saturday night, while at work in the Nostrand avenue car stables.

Peter D. Freeman, mate of the bark Windsor, was robbed of a silver watch and gold chain, valued at $35, Saturday night, while in the liquor store of Mrs. Dowdy, No. 375 Sherman street.

Alexander Hock, of 242 Flatbush avenue, was arrested on Saturday, on complaint of Herman Sticht, charged with passing a false check for $50 drawn on the Sixpenny Savings Bank of New-York.

Ditmas Jewell, President of the Fire Department of New-Lots, had his left arm broken at the wrist on Saturday night by falling through a stairway of an unfinished house adjoining one where he was during a fire.

Francis Dawson was found by Frederick Motzer, a baker, of No. 300 Myrtle avenue, yesterday morning, in the act of robbing his money-drawer. He had his shoes off, and was on his hands and knees behind the counter.

On July 6, 1874, Thomas Smith stole from Stephen N. Hall a gold watch and chain and seal ring, all valued at $250, and left the city. Hall has since died, and Smith returned yesterday and surrendered himself, but failed to bring the property with him.

Francis J. Coughlin, of No. 61 Tompkins avenue, had a gold watch valued at $100 and $95 in money stolen from his pocket on the night of July 21, at the corner of Bushwick and Myrtle avenues. The watch was found in the possession of Mr. William Simmons, produce dealer in Washington Market, who took it out of pawn. He bought the ticket of Richard Bowen, who told him his child was dead, and he would redeem the watch in a few days. He gave Bowen three barrels of sweet potatoes for the ticket. The money was not recovered, and no arrests have yet been made.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Hon. John Jay will deliver the address before the Westchester County Historical Society at its annual meeting on Thursday, 28th inst., the anniversary of the battle of White Plains. The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church, White Plains, at 2 P. M.

NEW-JERSEY.

The pulpit of the Prospect Avenue Church, Jersey City Heights, from which John S. Glendenning has just been deposed by the Synod, was filled yesterday by Rev. Mr. Buck, of Hoboken.

Mr. Lang Sheaff, the railroad revivalist, preached yesterday afternoon in the Pennsylvania Railroad freight house, in Jersey City, to a large congregation of railroad men and citizens. Rev. Hiram Eddy and Mr. Thomas Spooner also delivered addresses.

James Ward, a switchman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a drill engine at the Warren street crossing in Jersey City, yesterday, and instantly killed. Michael Gaynor, the drill master who ordered the moving of the train, and George W. Bishop, the fireman, were arrested and are held in $1,000 bail to appear for examination to-day on a charge of manslaughter.

Ludwig Elge, a German twenty-four years of age, living at No. 455 Henderson street, Jersey City, became involved in an altercation with his wife at their home last evening and threw a kettle of boiling water over her. She was terribly scalded and was removed to St. Francis' Hospital, where her injuries were pronounced fatal. Elge was arrested by Officer Creech and is held to await the result of her injuries.

A GOVERNOR GENERAL'S DESTITUTE FATHER.

A poor old harpist named Détroit, eighty-four years of age, who picks up a scanty living at Berlin lately applied to the theatrical authorities of that city for some assistance, and stated that he is the father of the present Governor General of Albania. Inquiries at the Turkish Embassy confirmed the truth of his assertion. Mohammed Ali-Pacha, formerly Carl Détroit, entered, while young, the service of the Porte, and made a rapid fortune after having abjured his religion. He is now about to be called upon to aid his aged parent. This latter was admitted to the orchestra of the Berlin opera at the first performance of the "Huguenots," at the express recommendation of Meyerbeer himself, who had a high opinion of his talent.

THE MEDOC VINTAGE.

Messrs. H. R. Williams & Co., wine importers, send an extract of a letter to the London Times relating to the claret vintage: "The vintage throughout the Médoc is in full operation. The quantity of wine made this year will be great, very great, far in excess of that of last year, (which was a good one,) while the quality will, I venture to predict, be excellent. They have seldom had a finer year; the wine is being made under the most favorable circumstances; the weather is most propitious, and is, in fact, everything that could be desired; the fermentation progresses regularly, and in a way which appears to give the utmost satisfaction. It does one good to see the rich clusters of full-sized bunches of grapes, with their full-formed berries, and, what is most important in the making of good wine, well and equally ripened and full of saccharine. One of the finest and best-known estates I visited on Monday, producing generally from 150 to 160 tuns of fine claret, will this year make from 220 to 240 tuns, the latter being the most likely quantity. Another, (a small one, but a type of most others,) which last year produced eighteen tuns, has this year actually made twenty-five tuns. The coopers are everywhere busy, and the price of casks has risen considerably, which is always the case when the vintage is a large one. I have visited most of the best estates, and have driven through many miles of vineyards. In many the wine is already made, and it requires no very great discernment to discover that the farmers are well satisfied with the math; indeed, there is the same plenty everywhere. Depend upon it, prices must rule much lower than those of the 1874 vintage. There will be none of those ruinous, speculative purchases of this year's vintage as last, buyer competing with buyer, and, as a rule, giving the most exorbitant prices when the most moderate only would be justified."
